

June 2020

The Britannia

BLACK LIVES MATTER Page 6
The truth about the violent, destructive mob

BLACK LIVES MATTER

FREE
FREE HM POSTER INSIDE!

SEE PAGES
8 & 9

Covid-19⁸⁴ Elite Virus Power Grab

The real virus is FEAR – and the political and media elites have been spreading it deliberately to scare people into accepting police state tyranny and ID vaccinations

Ripping us all off isn't so much about grabbing our assets.

The elite already own the banking system, the global corporations and all the top real estate. They aren't that interested competitors to the big hospitality chains. It's about completing the destruction of working class communities, and getting rid of the last places where ordinary people can exchange information and talk about what's going on.

Covid1984 is an artificial controlled

Covid-19⁸⁴ Elite Virus Power Grab

The real virus is FEAR – and the political and media elites have been spreading it deliberately to scare people into accepting police state tyranny and ID vaccinations

Ripping us all off isn't so much about grabbing our assets.

The elite already own the banking system, the global corporations and all the top real estate. They aren't that interested in grabbing a couple of million extra repossessed homes, or knocking out the last few independent businesses that were competing with their giant monopolies.

Their interest in grinding us all down into bankrupt poverty isn't really about money, it's about POWER.

People who own their own homes, run their own businesses and have some savings also have a degree of independence.

People like that have the assets, competitors to the big hospitality chains. It's about completing the destruction of working class communities, and getting rid of the last places where ordinary people can exchange information and talk about what's going on.

Without the pub, we're forced to get our news from the controlled mass media or the now ruthlessly censored internet.

The Covid-19⁸⁴ Lockdown Depression is also going to finish off the last of the old power of organised labour. While this was often abused by far-left agitators in the past, the strength of the unions always remained as a last defence against totalitarian government.

The Ulster Workers Council strike of 1974, the overthrow of Communism in Poland in 1989 by the Solidarity union, these

Covid19⁸⁴ is an artificial controlled demolition job on 90% of British society

Pubs Shut, Borders Open

Our Government could have kept Covid-19 out of our country for long enough to prepare the NHS, but the Johnson regime refused to close the

Political elites put the entire population of Britain under house arrest, but sent the Coastguard and police to help hundreds of bogus

While factories were closed and pubs shut, the whole gang of fools, crooks and traitors in Westminster worked together to make sure that they

Power Grab

The real virus is FEAR – and the political and media elites have been spreading it deliberately to scare people into accepting police state tyranny and ID vaccinations

Ripping us all off isn't so much about grabbing our assets.

The elite already own the banking system, the global corporations and all the top real estate. They aren't that interested in grabbing a couple of million extra repossessed homes, or knocking out the last few independent businesses that were competing with their giant monopolies.

Their interest in grinding us all down into bankrupt poverty isn't really about money, it's about POWER.

People who own their own homes, run their own businesses and have some savings also have a degree of independence.

People like that have the assets, the skills, money and freedom to defend their rights.

But force them down to minor roles in the low-paid but bloated post-covid hand-outs state, replace self-employment with wage work or benefit payments, and the ruined middle class can never again threaten the power of the global elite and their political puppets.

Likewise, the elite drive to use covid-1984 lockdowns to close down traditional pubs isn't about removing a few competitors to the big hospitality chains. It's about completing the destruction of working class communities, and getting rid of the last places where ordinary people can exchange information and talk about what's going on.

Without the pub, we're forced to get our news from the controlled mass media or the now ruthlessly censored internet.

The Covid-1984 Lockdown Depression is also going to finish off the last of the old power of organised labour. While this was often abused by far-left agitators in the past, the strength of the unions always remained as a last defence against totalitarian government.

The Ulster Workers Council strike of 1974, the overthrow of Communism in Poland in 1989 by the Solidarity union, these and many earlier struggles have always reminded the globalists that unbroken trade unions would also threaten their Brave New World future.

So some of the Covid-1984 lockdown powers - and the economic disaster they were designed to produce - were aimed to break Britain's middle class. Others were designed to finish off the working class.

Covid1984 is an artificial controlled demolition job on 90% of British society

Pubs Shut, Borders Open

Our Government could have kept Covid-19 out of our country for long enough to prepare the NHS, but the Johnson regime refused to close the airports and shut our borders.

Political elites put the entire population of Britain under house arrest, but sent the Coastguard and police to help hundreds of bogus 'refugees' cross the Channel daily.

While factories were closed and pubs shut, the whole gang of fools, crooks and traitors in Westminster worked together to make sure that they kept our borders open.

BRITISH FREEDOM PARTY – It's about time!

Standing up for Britain. Because England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland are stronger together!

Fed up with being a second-class citizen in your own country?

Had enough of being ignored or put to the back of the queue? British civil rights organiser JAYDA FRANSEN invites YOU to join the British Freedom Party.

See Page 15

Continued on Page 2

Covid-19⁸⁴ Elite Virus Power Grab

Continued from Page 1

This wasn't some unavoidable natural disaster; Covid1984 is an artificial controlled demolition job on 90% of British society.

An attack on us all on behalf of the super rich. A power grab by the global elite. Working class and middle class. Boomers and Zoomers. Left and Right. Brexiteers and Remainers. We're all the same now. We're all in their firing line, we've all been locked down and ripped off.

As people realise what's going on and begin to organise resistance, we can expect the globalists to roll out the oldest trick in the book of elite power grabs - Divide and Rule.

LGBT? NHS? Who Does The Rainbow Belong To?

It is likely that every reader has drawn a rainbow at some stage in their life, for many of us this will have been during our early childhood, many years ago.

There is a song about the rainbow that we learnt as children and now teach our own children and grandchildren to help familiarise them with primary colours.

However, the rainbow has, in more recent years, found itself to be a highly charged political symbol used in one of the most ferocious campaign drives seen in generations.

In 1978 the rainbow was adapted into what is now a recognised flag, the 'rainbow flag' which is used as a symbol of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer pride (more commonly known as LGBTQ) social movements.

The creator of the rainbow flag was Gilbert Baker, a homosexual drag artist from Kansas, U.S and anti-Christian campaigner who died in 2017. Baker is hailed an icon in the gay community, not least for his creation of the rainbow flag, but also his famous 'pink Jesus' costume, consisting of an American flag loincloth and pink body paint which he wore as an anti-Christian schools, businesses and residential properties to offer a message of hope to passers by.

The popularity of this new trend was not missed by the newly established rule by decree British Government

However, there is one thing that remains to be seen in many windows and even scribbled in chalk on pavements. The rainbow.

In the most unlikely turn of events, the children of Britain appear to have unwittingly claimed of the true meaning of the rainbow, of which I am certain Baker was aware.

An even more sinister truth is that the comfortable familiarity of the rainbow among our children has made it far easier to push

Covid-19⁸⁴ Elite Virus Power Grab

Continued from Page 1

This wasn't some unavoidable natural disaster; Covid1984 is an artificial controlled demolition job on 90% of British society.

An attack on us all on behalf of the super rich. A power grab by the global elite. Working class and middle class. Boomers and Zoomers. Left and Right. Brexiteers and Remainers. We're all the same now. We're all in their firing line, we've all been locked down and ripped off.

As people realise what's going on and begin to organise resistance, we can expect the globalists to roll out the oldest trick in the book of elite power grabs - Divide and Rule.

We'll see them activate the really deep and emotional divisions that their political and media puppets have already created in our society. Native Brits and 'new Brits', Muslims and everyone else.

And if they can get us fighting each other, the elite will have even more excuses for censorship, spy cameras, ID vaccinations and robocops - to build their Big Brother police state.

Are you willing to bow down and accept this destruction of a thousand years of British freedom? Or are you going to fight for your rights and a decent, free future for British children?

will have been during our early childhood, many years ago.

There is a song about the rainbow that we learnt as children and now teach our own children and grandchildren to help familiarise them with primary colours.

However, the rainbow has, in more recent years, found itself to be a highly charged political symbol used in one of the most ferocious campaign drives seen in generations.

In 1978 the rainbow was adapted into what is now a recognised flag, the 'rainbow flag' which is used as a symbol of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer pride (more commonly known as LGBTQ) social movements.

The creator of the rainbow flag was Gilbert Baker, a homosexual drag artist from Kansas, U.S and anti-Christian campaigner who died in 2017. Baker is hailed an icon in the gay community, not least for his creation of the rainbow flag, but also his famous 'pink Jesus' costume, consisting of an American flag loincloth and pink body paint which he wore on anti-Christian demonstrations.

Thanks to Baker, what had long been a learning tool for children, became the corporate branding of schools, businesses and residential properties to offer a message of hope to passers by.

The popularity of this new trend was not missed by the newly established rule by decree British Government.

Within days of being told we could no longer leave our houses, the people of Britain dutifully stood outside their homes every Thursday to clap for NHS staff who were said to be facing the greatest challenge of their careers, with an unprecedented number of expected omissions into emergency wards of people stricken by this deadly virus.

This initiative was something the Government heavily promoted and we even saw several instances of social distancing breaches, as the likes of Met police Chief Cressida Dick stood amongst crowds of people frantically clapping for those still permitted to leave their homes and go to work.

However, there is one thing that remains to be seen in many windows and even scribbled in chalk on pavements. The rainbow.

In the most unlikely turn of events, the children of Britain appear to have unwittingly reclaimed the rainbow from the LGBTQ fundamentalists.

Across the U.K. a wave of rainbows is on display in windows up and down the country as a symbol of people's solidarity with NHS and key workers.

This even sparked a trend of new rainbow coloured "Thank You NHS" flags, with no link to the LGBTQ cause.

This has sparked outrage in the LGBTQ community, accusing the NHS of having hijacked a symbol they fought long to use as a tool to promote their agenda.

But who does the rainbow really belong to? Is it the disgruntled Homosexual and Transgender of the true meaning of the rainbow, of which I am certain Baker was aware.

An even more sinister truth is that the comfortable familiarity of the rainbow among our children has made it far easier to push the LGBTQ agenda through our education system under the guise of joy and positivity.

Whilst the 'Thank you NHS' campaign is somewhat more palatable, in that the rainbow now symbolises gratitude towards a long failing institution, it is still an undeserving proprietor of this divine symbol.

The true meaning of the rainbow is revealed to us in Genesis; it is a Covenant between God and man and all the animals kinds that were on the Ark with Noah. A promise from the God that there would never be such another global flood that would destroy all of mankind.

We also read in Ezeikil and on 90% of British society.

An attack on us all on behalf of the super rich. A power grab by the global elite. Working class and middle class. Boomers and Zoomers. Left and Right. Brexiteers and Remainers. We're all the same now. We're all in their firing line, we've all been locked down and ripped off.

As people realise what's going on and begin to organise resistance, we can expect the globalists to roll out the oldest trick in the book of elite power grabs - Divide and Rule.

We'll see them activate the really deep and emotional divisions that their political and media puppets have already created in our society. Native Brits and 'new Brits', Muslims and everyone else.

And if they can get us fighting each other, the elite will have even more excuses for censorship, spy cameras, ID vaccinations and robocops - to build their Big Brother police state.

Are you willing to bow down and accept this destruction of a thousand years of British freedom? Or are you going to fight for your rights and a decent, free future for British children?

flag which is used as a symbol of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer pride (more commonly known as LGBTQ) social movements.

The creator of the rainbow flag was Gilbert Baker, a homosexual drag artist from Kansas, U.S and anti-Christian campaigner who died in 2017. Baker is hailed an icon in the gay community, not least for his creation of the rainbow flag, but also his famous 'pink Jesus' costume, consisting of an American flag loincloth and pink body paint which he wore on anti-Christian demonstrations.

Thanks to Baker, what had long been a learning tool for children, became the corporate branding of a hardline campaign to promote homosexuality and the changing of ones gender.

Even more recently though, the rainbow has been used for a very different cause altogether.

Shortly after the Covid-19 lockdown was announced by Prime Minister Boris Johnson on 23rd March 2020, pictures of rainbows drawn by isolating children started to appear in the windows of schools, businesses and residential properties to offer a message of hope to passers by.

The popularity of this new trend was not missed by the newly established rule by decree British Government.

Within days of being told we could no longer leave our houses, the people of Britain dutifully stood outside their homes every Thursday to clap for NHS staff who were said to be facing the greatest challenge of their careers, with an unprecedented number of expected omissions into emergency wards of people stricken by this deadly virus.

This initiative was something the Government heavily promoted and we even saw several instances of social distancing breaches, as the likes of Met police Chief Cressida Dick stood amongst crowds of people frantically clapping for those still permitted to leave their homes and go to work.

Such public adoration has died down somewhat; partly due to the release of countless Tik Tok videos in which NHS staff did not seem to be under too much pressure at all, but also because humans are fickle and, since the lockdown measures are easing, people have found that they do not need to perform empty gestures in order to convince themselves that they have not lost all control.

However, there is one thing that remains to be seen in many windows and even scribbled in chalk on pavements. The rainbow.

In the most unlikely turn of events, the children of Britain appear to have unwittingly reclaimed the rainbow from the LGBTQ fundamentalists.

Across the U.K. a wave of rainbows is on display in windows up and down the country as a symbol of people's solidarity with NHS and key workers.

This even sparked a trend of new rainbow coloured "Thank You NHS" flags, with no link to the LGBTQ cause.

This has sparked outrage in the LGBTQ community, accusing the NHS of having hijacked a symbol they fought long to use as a tool to promote their agenda.

But who does the rainbow really belong to? Is it the disgruntled Homosexual and Transgender community or the newly crowned heroes of Britain, the NHS?

The answer is, neither.

The disgraceful hijacking of the rainbow by a rabid anti-Christian activist to actively promote degeneracy makes the State sponsored 'Thank you NHS' campaign feel like a breath of fresh air.

The reality is that the LGBTQ agenda is in direct contravention of the true meaning of the rainbow, of which I am certain Baker was aware.

An even more sinister truth is that the comfortable familiarity of the rainbow among our children has made it far easier to push the LGBTQ agenda through our education system under the guise of joy and positivity.

Whilst the 'Thank you NHS' campaign is somewhat more palatable, in that the rainbow now symbolises gratitude towards a long failing institution, it is still an undeserving proprietor of this divine symbol.

The true meaning of the rainbow is revealed to us in Genesis; it is a Covenant between God and man and all the animals kinds that were on the Ark with Noah. A promise from the God that there would never be such another global flood that would destroy all of mankind.

We also read in Ezeikil and Revelation that the rainbow is a Covenant of Grace; it is a symbol of Christ Himself.

So when you see these rainbow pictures drawn by our innocent little children wanting to bring a bit of joy and hope to others, remember that it symbolises a merciful God and a saviour who paid the ultimate sacrifice for us all.

It is not and never will be a symbol of gay Pride.

Church of England fuels anti-white race riots

In the midst of international race riots, the Archbishop of Canterbury says the Church must 'set its house in order' over racism.

Earlier this year, the Archbishop of Canterbury declared the Church of England to be 'deeply institutionally racist'.

After taking a vote, the Church decided to apologise for racism experienced by 'countless black, Asian and minority ethnic people over the past 70 years.'

The Most Reverend Justin Welby says he is 'ashamed' of the Church's history of racism and said 'basic rules' were needed - such as for ethnic minorities to be represented in panels within the church.

His most recent statement follows an eruption of Black Lives Matter riots across the world which have seen buildings burnt, statues toppled and police officers killed.

The Church of England has long been part of the corrupt British Establishment which seeks any and every opportunity to stir racial tension and demonise whites.

In his statement, Welby claimed "As a person I acknowledge that I come from privilege and a place of power as a white person in this country, and then we take action."

At a time when Christians are being massacred at a genocidal rate, when abortion is being celebrated in the streets and the world is trying to cope with the outbreak of a deadly virus, the Archbishop of Canterbury somehow found a window of opportunity for virtue signalling.

The Archbishop's repeated 'admissions' of institutional racism within the Church of England are just another catalyst for the ongoing attacks on white, British culture.

Why is the World Ignoring Christian Genocide?

The persecution of Christians has been declared a global phenomenon which has reached genocidal levels, yet there is a deafening silence from world leaders on this issue.

On Boxing Day 2018 The (then) Rt Hon Jeremy Hunt MP, HM Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, announced that he had asked The Rt. Rev. Philip Mounstephen

Bishop of Truro to set up an Independent Review into the global persecution of Christians.

The review, which was originally anticipated to have been complete by the end of April 2019 uncovered the truly harrowing facts of the global phenomenon of Christian persecution.

Christians living in the top 50 countries suffer high levels of persecution or worse", 30 million up on the previous year.

The Bishop's Final Report, published in July 2019, evidenced, not only the geographic spread of anti-Christian persecution, but also its increasing severity. In some regions, the level and nature of persecution is arguably coming close to meeting the international definition of genocide, according to that adopted by the UN.

The eradication of

"Christians have been harassed in more countries than any other religious group"

Defund the BBC

Demands to defund the BBC are growing at a rapid rate.

The BBC, founded on 18th October 1922, is the world's oldest national broadcaster, and the largest by number of employees.

However, despite its grandeur, it is certainly nothing for the British public to be proud of.

Its work is funded principally by an annual television licence fee which is charged to all British households using any type of equipment to receive or record live television broadcasts and iPlayer catch-up. In return for funding from licence fee payments the BBC is supposed to produce politically impartial content.

The BBC's editorial guidelines state: "The BBC is committed to achieving due impartiality in all its output. This commitment is fundamental to our reputation, our values and the trust of audiences."

Despite their claims of impartiality, the BBC are anything but.

of Canterbury declared the Church of England to be 'deeply institutionally racist'.

After taking a vote, the Church decided to apologise for racism

Church's history of racism and said 'basic rules' were needed - such as for ethnic minorities to be represented in panels within the church.

The Church of England has long been part of the corrupt British Establishment which seeks any and every opportunity to stir racial tension and demonise whites.

At a time when Christians are being massacred at a genocidal rate, when abortion is being celebrated in the streets and

'admissions' of institutional racism within the Church of England are just another catalyst for the ongoing attacks on white, British culture.

Why is the World Ignoring Christian Genocide?

The persecution of Christians has been declared a global phenomenon which has reached genocidal levels, yet there is a deafening silence from world leaders on this issue.

On Boxing Day 2018 The (then) Rt Hon Jeremy Hunt MP, HM Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, announced that he had asked The Rt. Rev. Philip Mounstephen

Bishop of Truro to set up an Independent Review into the global persecution of Christians.

The review, which was originally anticipated to have been complete by the end of April 2019 uncovered the truly harrowing facts of the global phenomenon of Christian persecution.

An Interim Report published in April 2019 revealed that there is widespread evidence showing that today, Christians constitute by far the most widely persecuted religion.

In May 2019 the then Foreign Secretary Jeremy Hunt said he felt that "political correctness" had played a part in the issue not being confronted.

Finding once again that Christianity is the most persecuted religion in the world, the Pew Research Centre concluded that in Christians living in the top 50 countries suffer high levels of persecution or worse, 30 million up on the previous year.

The Bishop's Final Report, published in July 2019, evidenced, not only the geographic spread of anti-Christian persecution, but also its increasing severity. In some regions, the level and nature of persecution is arguably coming close to meeting the international definition of genocide, according to that adopted by the UN.

The eradication of Christians and other minorities on pain of "the sword" or other violent means was revealed to be the specific and stated objective of extremist groups in Syria, Iraq, Egypt, north-east Nigeria and the Philippines. An intent to erase all evidence of the Christian presence was made plain by the removal of crosses, the destruction of Church buildings and other Church symbols.

The killing and abduction of clergy represented a direct attack on the Church's structure and before 2003 to below 120,000 today.

In Palestine, Christian numbers are below 1.5 percent; in Syria the Christian population has declined from 1.7 million in 2011 to below 450,000 and in Iraq, largely through the 'ethnic cleansing' of ancient Christian communities from the Nineveh Plains. Christian numbers

Christianity is at risk of disappearing and, with the exception of US President Donald J Trump, world leaders remain largely silent on this issue.

Why is the world ignoring

Defund the BBC

Demands to defund the BBC are growing at a rapid rate.

The BBC, founded on 18th October 1922, is the world's oldest national broadcaster, and the largest by number of employees.

However, despite its grandeur, it is certainly nothing for the British public to be proud of.

Its work is funded principally by an annual television licence fee which is charged to all British households using any type of equipment to receive or record live television broadcasts and iPlayer catch-up. In return for funding from licence fee payments the BBC is supposed to produce politically impartial content.

The BBC's editorial guidelines state: "The BBC is committed to achieving due impartiality in all its output. This commitment is fundamental to our reputation, our values and the trust of audiences."

Despite their claims of impartiality, the BBC are anything but.

Following the appointment of a Muslim 'Head of Religion', Aaqil Ahmed, the Corporation published a report claiming they were 'too Christian'.

The BBC's own employees have repeatedly drawn attention to the corporation's bias against Christianity. In 2012, former newsman Dennis Sewell produced a report which accuses the BBC of being over-considerate towards Islam — in marked contrast to its treatment of Christianity.

The former head of the BBC

Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, announced that he had asked The Rt. Rev. Philip Mounstephen

Bishop of Truro to set up an Independent Review into the global persecution of Christians.

The review, which was originally anticipated to have been complete by the end of April 2019 uncovered the truly harrowing facts of the global phenomenon of Christian persecution.

An Interim Report published in April 2019 revealed that there is widespread evidence showing that today, Christians constitute by far the most widely persecuted religion.

In May 2019 the then Foreign Secretary Jeremy Hunt said he felt that "political correctness" had played a part in the issue not being confronted.

Finding once again that Christianity is the most persecuted religion in the world, the Pew Research Centre concluded that in 2016 Christians were targeted in 144 countries – a rise from 125 in 2015. According to Pew Research, "Christians have been harassed in more countries than any other religious group and have suffered harassment in many of the heavily Muslim countries of the Middle East and North Africa."

Reporting "a shocking increase in the persecution of Christians globally", Christian persecution NGO Open Doors (OD) revealed in its 2019 World Watch List Report on anti-Christian oppression that "approximately 245 million persons or worse, 50 million up on the previous year.

The Bishop's Final Report, published in July 2019, evidenced, not only the geographic spread of anti-Christian persecution, but also its increasing severity. In some regions, the level and nature of persecution is arguably coming close to meeting the international definition of genocide, according to that adopted by the UN.

The eradication of Christians and other minorities on pain of "the sword" or other violent means was revealed to be the specific and stated objective of extremist groups in Syria, Iraq, Egypt, north-east Nigeria and the Philippines. An intent to erase all evidence of the Christian presence was made plain by the removal of crosses, the destruction of Church buildings and other Church symbols.

The killing and abduction of clergy represented a direct attack on the Church's structure and leadership. Where these and other incidents meet the tests of genocide, state parties to the UN Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide have a duty not only to bring perpetrators to justice but also to prevent attempts at genocide.

The main impact of such genocidal acts against Christians is internal displacement and exodus. Christianity now faces the possibility of being wiped-out in parts of the Middle East where its roots go back furthest.

"Christians have been harassed in more countries than any other religious group"

In Palestine, Christian numbers are below 1.5 percent; in Syria the Christian population has declined from 1.7 million in 2011 to below 450,000 and in Iraq, largely through the 'ethnic cleansing' of ancient Christian communities from the Nineveh Plains, Christian numbers have slumped from 1.5 million before 2003 to below 120,000 today.

Christianity is at risk of disappearing and, with the exception of US President Donald J Trump, world leaders remain largely silent on this issue.

Why is the world ignoring Christian Genocide?

Questions over Tanzania Covid kits after goat & pawpaw test positive Corona Virus testing kits used in Tanzania have been dismissed as faulty by President John Magufuli.

The decision came after Magufuli confirmed that the tests had returned Covid-19 positive results on samples taken from a goat and a pawpaw fruit. The president said these were "technical errors".

equipment to receive or record live television broadcasts and iPlayer catch-up. In return for funding from licence fee payments the BBC is supposed to produce politically impartial content.

The BBC's editorial guidelines state: "The BBC is committed to achieving due impartiality in all its output. This commitment is fundamental to our reputation, our values and the trust of audiences."

Despite their claims of impartiality, the BBC are anything but.

Following the appointment of a Muslim 'Head of Religion', Aaqil Ahmed, the Corporation published a report claiming they were 'too Christian'.

The BBC's own employees have repeatedly drawn attention to the corporation's bias against Christianity. In 2012, former newsman Dennis Sewell produced a report which accuses the BBC of being over-considerate towards Islam — in marked contrast to its treatment of Christianity.

The former head of the BBC, Mark Thomson, also admitted that the broadcaster would never mock Mohammed like it mocks Jesus.

Calls are growing for the BBC licence fee, currently £157.50 per household, to be abolished.

Those caught watching television without a licence can be fined up to £1,000 in addition to court costs.

In 2018, Five people were sent to prison for defaulting on their TV licence in England and 19 were jailed in 2017. The majority of those jailed were women, who make up almost 70 per cent of those prosecuted.

State Attack on Soldiers A-Z

Operation Banner was the name for the British Armed Forces' military campaign in Northern Ireland from 1969 to 2007, during the period most commonly known as 'The Troubles'.

It was the longest continuous deployment of Armed Forces personnel in British military history, during which over 250,000 military personnel served.

Between August 1969 and July 2007 1,441 military personnel died as a result of operations in Northern Ireland. 722 of those personnel were killed in paramilitary attacks.

The conflict began in the late 1960s and is usually deemed to have ended with the Good Friday Agreement of 1998.

The 1998 Good Friday Agreement made no provision for the investigation or prosecution of former members of the Armed Forces, focusing instead upon the early release of prisoners affiliated to paramilitary organisations. Nor did that Agreement provide an amnesty for crimes which had not yet been prosecuted.

Now, some 51 years since the commencement of the latest period of conflict, we are witnessing an almost inconceivable act of treachery by the very powers that deployed our military personnel into battle

It is such an abhorrent act by the British government.

Former British Army Sergeant Paul Skinner BEM of BritishVeteran.Org and Veterans & Supporters United Northern Ireland, with whom British Freedom party leader Jayda Fransen has campaigned said:

"Essentially our view is that the British Government has supported a rewriting of the Troubles history and, a reboot of inquests and criminal investigations into Troubles related deaths. There are 6 veterans destined to be tried in the immediate future. Another 7 Veterans have just been referred to the Public Prosecution Services. There are to be 90 or so Coroners Inquests over the next 5 years that could lead to Criminal Trials.

In all, 200-300 Crown Forces Crown Forces Veterans are in jeopardy in what is probably the last years of their lives. "

There are currently six ex-servicemen facing prosecution.

We are now witnessing an almost inconceivable act of treachery by the very powers that deployed our military personnel into battle.

Operation Banner was the name for the British Armed Forces' military campaign in Northern Ireland from 1969 to 2007, during the period most commonly known as 'The Troubles'.

It was the longest continuous deployment of Armed Forces personnel in British military history, during which over 250,000 military personnel served.

Between August 1969 and July 2007 1,441 military personnel died as a result of operations in Northern Ireland. 722 of those personnel were killed in paramilitary attacks.

The conflict began in the late 1960s and is usually deemed to have ended with the Good Friday Agreement of 1998.

The 1998 Good Friday Agreement made no provision for the investigation or prosecution of former members of the Armed Forces, focusing instead upon the early release of prisoners affiliated to paramilitary organisations. Nor did that Agreement provide an amnesty for crimes which had not yet been prosecuted.

Now, some 51 years since the commencement of the latest period of conflict, we are witnessing an almost inconceivable act of treachery by the very powers that deployed our military personal into battle.

The British government are prosecuting our own veterans.

A number of brave men, who were deployed to serve and protect innocent British civilians against the terror campaign being waged by the IRA, are now facing jail.

Many of these men are well into the age of retirement after having served their country for decades and are now being dragged into

It is such an abhorrent act by the British government.

Former British Army Sergeant Paul Skinner BEM of BritishVeteran.Org and Veterans & Supporters United Northern Ireland, with whom British Freedom party leader Jayda Fransen has campaigned said:

"Essentially our view is that the British Government has supported a rewriting of the Troubles history and, a reboot of inquests and criminal investigations into Troubles related deaths. There are 6 veterans destined to be tried in the immediate future. Another 7 Veterans have just been referred to the Public Prosecution Services. There are to be 90 or so Coroners Inquests over the next 5 years that could lead to Criminal Trials.

In all, 200-300 Crown Forces Crown Forces Veterans are in jeopardy in what is probably the last years of their lives. "

There are currently six ex-servicemen facing prosecution, they have become known as Soldiers A-Z.

There are currently six ex-servicemen facing prosecution, they have become known as Soldiers A-Z.

The most shocking element here is that, this is not the enemy attacking our men, it is not some Guerilla Army or foreign foe. It is our own government, going after the very men that they deployed to risk their lives to loyally serve their country and protect their people, making this, quite possibly the most horrific betrayal this country

We are now witnessing an almost inconceivable act of treachery by the very powers that deployed our military personal into battle

Agreement made no provision for the investigation or prosecution of former members of the Armed Forces, focusing instead upon the early release of prisoners affiliated to paramilitary organisations. Nor did that Agreement provide an amnesty for crimes which had not yet been prosecuted.

Now, some 51 years since the commencement of the latest period of conflict, we are witnessing an almost inconceivable act of treachery by the very powers that deployed our military personal into battle.

The British government are prosecuting our own veterans.

A number of brave men, who were deployed to serve and protect innocent British civilians against the terror campaign being waged by the IRA, are now facing jail.

Many of these men are well into the age of retirement after having served their country for decades and are now being dragged into court and demonised.

to the Public Prosecution Services. There are to be 90 or so Coroners Inquests over the next 5 years that could lead to Criminal Trials.

In all, 200-300 Crown Forces Crown Forces Veterans are in jeopardy in what is probably the last years of their lives. "

There are currently six ex-servicemen facing prosecution, they have become known as Soldiers A-Z.

The most shocking element here is that, this is not the enemy attacking our men, it is not some Guerilla Army or foreign foe. It is our own government, going after the very men that they deployed to risk their lives to loyally serve their country and protect their people, making this, quite possibly the most horrific betrayal this country has witnessed.

It is an almost inconceivable act of treachery by the very powers that deployed our military personal into battle.

Indian Parents name newborn twins Corona and Covid

A couple in an Indian state with unpronounceable name have Christened their newborn twins Corona and Covid.

The twins - a boy and a girl - were born during the worldwide lockdown.

The couple said the names would remind them about the hardships they faced during the lockdown.

Nurse reprimanded for wearing bikini under transparent PPE

A nurse in Russia has been given a telling off for 'non-compliance with the requirements of medical clothing'.

The semi-attractive nurse was pictured wearing a bikini beneath a see-through protective gown while tending to patients on a ward for males in the Tula region south of Moscow.

Time to call out those 'Darlings of the Right'

I have made no secret about the fact that I am AGAINST myself and my people being locked in our houses during, what the media and government are peddling as a pandemic, whilst the statistics simply continue to fail to support that.

But what I object to even further is the fact that, whilst I am being stripped of my liberty like my fellow Britons, hordes of invaders are continuing to pour onto our shores.

And what is even worse still is that the Home Secretary, Priti Patel, one of the darlings of the so called 'right wing' in Britain, is more interested in people leaving their houses to get a rare bit of British Springtime sunshine, than she is about potential jihadists infiltrating our island.

However unpopular my message claiming to be patriots, nationalists, even freedom fighters and here they are signing up to these elitists who don't give a monkeys about them!

You know, the same Eton, Oxford Cambridge privileged folk who have never witnessed a mugging or child grooming because, the areas they live in aren't the areas they flood with the very same immigrants climbing off of those boats?

Boris and Priti didn't have the backbone to take us out of the European Union, they don't even have the backbone to defend our shores, but they will happily address the nation calling those of us who want to leave our houses 'selfish'.

Whilst we have been forced into remaining under house arrest an army of fresh immigrants have infiltrated our shores.

Whilst we are being told that unemployment is soaring, these opportunists ARE coming for the very jobs we no longer have.

Whilst we are all doing as we are told, standing outside our houses and clapping once a week, singing a song whilst we wash our red raw hands and queuing outside shops for hours on end only to go inside and touch the SAME products that have been handled by countless other people, just remember that our darling Home Secretary cares more about you sunbathing that she does about foreign invaders.

It is time the people of Britain

Antifa in Britain and Ireland

The Antifa of today traces its origins back to Weimar Germany. In 1930s Germany, their targets were anyone who stood up to the communist bully boys; today, we are the targets.

In almost one hundred years the tactics have not changed: silence and brutalise political opponents, vandalise and destroy all that the people hold dear to their hearts and pave the way for the Socialist utopia.

In Britain and Ireland, Antifa has linked up with an array of other militant, left-wing factions including Black Lives Matter and Sinn Féin.

with 'Pervy Pat'.

For his crimes, Pat was handed the laughable sentence of three and a half years suspended – he did not even serve one day in prison!

In 2012, "Antifascist" activists took to the Hill of Tara in County Meath and attacked the 5,500-year-old stone of Destiny with a hammer and covered it with red and black paint, the colours of Antifa. According to legend, all of the kings of Ireland were crowned on the stone up to 500 AD. If this is how they treat their own historical monuments, imagine what they will do to ours?

Closer to home on the

I have made no secret about the fact that I am AGAINST myself and my people being locked in our houses during, what the media and government are peddling as a pandemic, whilst the statistics simply continue to fail to support that.

But what I object to even further is the fact that, whilst I am being stripped of my liberty like my fellow Britons, hordes of invaders are continuing to pour onto our shores.

And what is even worse still is that the Home Secretary, Priti Patel, one of the darlings of the so called 'right wing' in Britain, is more interested in people leaving their houses to get a rare bit of British Springtime sunshine, than she is about potential jihadists infiltrating our island.

However unpopular my message may have been before, during and after the general election, it has remained unwavering and unapologetic: to all these people who class themselves as 'right wingers' and still dote over Priti Patel and Boris Johnson like they are some sort of messiahs, wise up.

Just because Boris and Priti spent months repeating the mere slogan 'get Brexit done' – doesn't mean they actually did. In fact, they sold us out, jeopardised our Union and gave us 'Brexit in name only'.

I have seen countless videos and memes of people pertaining to be patriots absolutely fawning over Priti Patel and for claiming to be patriots, nationalists, even freedom fighters and here they are signing up to these elitists who don't give a monkeys about them!

You know, the same Eton, Oxford Cambridge privileged folk who have never witnessed a mugging or child grooming because, the areas they live in aren't the areas they flood with the very same immigrants climbing off of those boats?

Boris and Priti didn't have the backbone to take us out of the European Union, they don't even have the backbone to defend our shores, but they will happily address the nation calling those of us who want to leave our houses 'selfish'.

At the start of this 'pandemic' I was fully supportive of our government, when they kept our economy going, kept our schools open, kept our businesses alive, now look at them. Just shouting more slogans at us like 'wash your hands', 'stay at home' whilst our entire economy has collapsed.

To those people who are reluctant

Whist we have been forced into remaining under house arrest an army of fresh immigrants have infiltrated our shores.

Whilst we are being told that unemployment is soaring, these opportunists ARE coming for the very jobs we no longer have.

Whilst we are all doing as we are told, standing outside our houses and clapping once a week, singing a song whilst we wash our red raw hands and queuing outside shops for hours on end only to go inside and touch the SAME products that have been handled by countless other people, just remember that our darling Home Secretary cares more about you sunbathing that she does about foreign invaders.

It is time the people of Britain stopped listening to the populist grifters who continue to proclaim their love for these smug members of our corrupt establishment and start thinking for themselves.

Whilst we were cooped up in our houses, so far over 1929 illegal immigrants have found their way into our nation, that we know of!

The only bit of 'reassurance' we have been given is that on the French side some people have been stopped from crossing into the UK.

No mention of what measures we have in place, no mention of the hundreds of intruders that have rocked

The Antifa of today traces its origins back to Weimar Germany. In 1930s Germany, their targets were anyone who stood up to the communist bully boys; today, we are the targets.

In almost one hundred years the tactics have not changed: silence and brutalise political opponents, vandalise and destroy all that the people hold dear to their hearts and pave the way for the Socialist utopia.

In Britain and Ireland, Antifa has linked up with an array of other militant, left-wing factions including Black Lives Matter and Sinn Féin.

The link between Sinn Féin and Antifa is the most conspicuous. Sinn Féin openly sells the groups merchandise on their online store.

The alleged founding member and leading figurehead of the Irish branch, Pat Corcoran—a convicted pedophile, is a close friend of former Sinn Féin and IRA leader, Gerry Adams.

Following Mr. Corcoran's conviction for possession of over 7,000 images and 21 videos featuring child sexual with 'Pervy Pat'.

For his crimes, Pat was handed the laughable sentence of three and a half years suspended – he did not even serve one day in prison!

In 2012, "Antifascist" activists took to the Hill of Tara in County Meath and attacked the 5,500-year-old stone of Destiny with a hammer and covered it with red and black paint, the colours of Antifa. According to legend, all of the kings of Ireland were crowned on the stone up to 500 AD. If this is how they treat their own historical monuments, imagine what they will do to ours?

Closer to home on the mainland, Black Lives Matter and Antifa work hand in glove today. The imagery of statues being scarred with graffiti, war memorials set ablaze and police officers running for their lives from black clad thugs, left ordinary Britons stunned.

Both groups have set aims and are not ashamed to make it known: the destruction of Christian, white civilisation in its entirety, yet our authorities waste precious resources hunting down right-wing trolls for online "hate speech" while as a pandemic, whilst the statistics simply continue to fail to support that.

But what I object to even further is the fact that, whilst I am being stripped of my liberty like my fellow Britons, hordes of invaders are continuing to pour onto our shores.

And what is even worse still is that the Home Secretary, Priti Patel, one of the darlings of the so called 'right wing' in Britain, is more interested in people leaving their houses to get a rare bit of British Springtime sunshine, than she is about potential jihadists infiltrating our island.

However unpopular my message may have been before, during and after the general election, it has remained unwavering and unapologetic: to all these people who class themselves as 'right wingers' and still dote over Priti Patel and Boris Johnson like they are some sort of messiahs, wise up.

Just because Boris and Priti spent months repeating the mere slogan 'get Brexit done' – doesn't mean they actually did. In fact, they sold us out, jeopardised our Union and gave us 'Brexit in name only'.

I have seen countless videos and memes of people pertaining to be patriots absolutely fawning over Priti Patel and for what?

The so called far right of this country even joined the conservative Party en masse just after the election.

These people have spent years

Cambridge privileged folk who have never witnessed a mugging or child grooming because, the areas they live in aren't the areas they flood with the very same immigrants climbing off of those boats?

Boris and Priti didn't have the backbone to take us out of the European Union, they don't even have the backbone to defend our shores, but they will happily address the nation calling those of us who want to leave our houses 'selfish'.

At the start of this 'pandemic' I was fully supportive of our government, when they kept our economy going, kept our schools open, kept our businesses alive, now look at them. Just shouting more slogans at us like 'wash your hands', 'stay at home' whilst our entire economy has collapsed.

To those people who are reluctant to rebel against that because they have been convinced by so called right wing leaders that the likes of Boris and Priti are heroes of the right;

Get a bloody grip.

Whilst we are being told that unemployment is soaring, these opportunists ARE coming for the very jobs we no longer have.

Whilst we are all doing as we are told, standing outside our houses and clapping once a week, singing a song whilst we wash our red raw hands and queuing outside shops for hours on end only to go inside and touch the SAME products that have been handled by countless other people, just remember that our darling Home Secretary cares more about you sunbathing that she does about foreign invaders.

It is time the people of Britain stopped listening to the populist grifters who continue to proclaim their love for these smug members of our corrupt establishment and start thinking for themselves.

Whilst we were cooped up in our houses, so far over 1929 illegal immigrants have found their way into our nation, that we know of!

The only bit of 'reassurance' we have been given is that on the French side some people have been stopped from crossing into the UK.

No mention of what measures we have in place, no mention of the hundreds of intruders that have rocked up already during this national crisis.

Any Home Secretary that prioritises draconian policing of indigenous people over an invasion of foreign criminals is not someone that deserves our support.

stood up to the communist bully boys; today, we are the targets.

In almost one hundred years the tactics have not changed: silence and brutalise political opponents, vandalise and destroy all that the people hold dear to their hearts and pave the way for the Socialist utopia.

In Britain and Ireland, Antifa has linked up with an array of other militant, left-wing factions including Black Lives Matter and Sinn Féin.

The link between Sinn Féin and Antifa is the most conspicuous. Sinn Féin openly sells the groups merchandise on their online store.

The alleged founding member and leading figurehead of the Irish branch, Pat Corcoran—a convicted pedophile, is a close friend of former Sinn Féin and IRA leader, Gerry Adams.

Following Mr. Corcoran's conviction for possession of over 7,000 images and 21 videos featuring child sexual abuse and torture, he remains active within the group, nor was his conviction enough to repel Gerry Adams and his comrades from associating years suspended—he did not even serve one day in prison!

In 2012, "Antifascist" activists took to the Hill of Tara in County Meath and attacked the 5,500-year-old stone of Destiny with a hammer and covered it with red and black paint, the colours of Antifa. According to legend, all of the kings of Ireland were crowned on the stone up to 500 AD. If this is how they treat their own historical monuments, imagine what they will do to ours?

Closer to home on the mainland, Black Lives Matter and Antifa work hand in glove today. The imagery of statues being scarred with graffiti, war memorials set ablaze and police officers running for their lives from black clad thugs, left ordinary Britons stunned.

Both groups have set aims and are not ashamed to make it known: the destruction of Christian, white civilisation in its entirety, yet our authorities waste precious resources hunting down right-wing trolls for online "hate speech," while violent, nihilistic thugs work day and night to destroy the very fabric of our nation; welcome to 21st Century Britain, ladies and gentlemen.

FOR MORE INFORMATION
VISIT OUR WEBSITE:
WWW.BRITISHFREEDOMPARTY.COM

Union Jack or Union Flag?

What is the name of the UK's national flag? Debate is almost as old as the flag itself and controversy persists to this day, although vexillologists agree that either name is valid. It is shameful that in Britain, mainly in England, most people have idea about the history of our flag or that three other national flags make up its design.

Union Jack or Union Flag? A Brief History

When first introduced in 1606, the 'Union Jack' was known simply as the 'British flag' or 'flag of Britain', and was ordered to be flown from the main masthead of all English and Scottish ships, warships and merchant ships.

The name 'Union' was described formally as 'His Majesty's Jack' and in common usage – officially acknowledged – as the Union Jack.

During the eighteenth century, the short mast on the bowsprit disappeared, to be replaced by staysails on the stays between bowsprit and foremast. The principal naval distinguishing flag had become the Ensign, so it grew customary to fly the Union Jack only in harbour – and from the 'jackstaff' (a specially rigged staff in the bows).

Note therefore that the 'jack' predated the 'jackstaff' by over 150 years, with the term 'jack' originally denoting size rather than position.

It is sometimes

The Truth About The Black Lives Matter Protests

James Goddard

I certainly never thought I'd see the day that the death of an African American criminal on the streets of Minneapolis, Minnesota would result in thousands of people taking to the streets of London and Manchester. However that's exactly what's happened. I can't help but wonder if the worst is to yet come.

George Floyd died in police custody on the 25th May 2020. Since that avoidable event unfolded we've seen violent riots erupt in major cities across America and Europe, riots that are being portrayed as peaceful protests by the Anti-White mainstream media.

What we've learnt since the death of Floyd is; firstly his death could of been prevented, we all heard him shout numerous times to the Police that he couldn't breathe and this was ignored by the arresting officers. The officers FAILED in their duty of care for Floyd.

I understand the frustration and anger over the death of Floyd.

they claim they're protesting are systemic racism, police brutality and the death of George Floyd.

There are several issues with their narrative:

Firstly, the hypocrisy is breathtaking; thousands of people in this country are so outraged over the death of a black criminal 4000 miles away, that they've decided to take to the streets in the midst of a pandemic. They're quite happy to put others at risk, so long as they can stay trendy, get a selfie, chant black lives matter and make out that they're part of something edgy, organic and righteous.

The very people that have been shaming others for breaching social distancing throughout this Chinese engineered pandemic, are now breaking all the rules and endangering the lives others, but I custody.

In my opinion these protests are about bringing down Western Civilization.

BLM are being used by the Marxists in the hope that they will start a race war. Which, by the way, is a very stupid idea and one that wouldn't work out well for both sides.

Ultimately we must realise that because of the actions of the political class, we have millions of people in our society that have polar opposite beliefs to us. We are an endangered species and we must bound together for the good of our people.

Now more than ever community is key. We must build strong communities that will come together when the situation gets worse. On the anniversary of D-Day BLM activists defaced the statue of arguably our greatest PM Sir

We must secure the existence of our people and a future for white children

Union Jack or Union Flag?

What is the name of the UK's national flag? Debate is almost as old as the flag itself and controversy persists to this day, although vexillologists agree that either name is valid. It is shameful that in Britain, mainly in England, most people have idea about the history of our flag or that three other national flags make up its design.

Union Jack or Union Flag? A Brief History

When first introduced in 1606, the 'Union Jack' was known simply as the 'British flag' or 'flag of Britain', and was ordered to be flown from the main masthead of all English and Scottish ships, warships and merchant ships.

The name 'Union' first appears in 1625, but what of the term 'jack'?

Various theories exist, but the bulk of the evidence indicates use of the word in its diminutive sense. Before 1600, 'jack' was certainly used to describe a small flag flown from the mast mounted at the end of the bowsprit; by 1627, a small version of the Union flag – later described as the 'Jack', 'Jack flag' or 'King's Jack' – seems to have flown commonly in this position; and by 1674, this flag was described formally as 'His Majesty's Jack' and in common usage – officially acknowledged – as the Union Jack.

During the eighteenth century, the short mast on the bowsprit disappeared, to be replaced by staysails on the stays between bowsprit and foremast. The principal naval distinguishing flag had become the Ensign, so it grew customary to fly the Union Jack only in harbour – and from the 'jackstaff' (a specially rigged staff in the bows).

Note therefore that the 'jack' predated the 'jackstaff' by over 150 years, with the term 'jack' originally denoting size rather than position.

It is sometimes claimed that the Union Flag should be described as the Union Jack only when flown in the bows of a warship, but this is a relatively recent idea. From its earliest days, the Admiralty often referred to the flag – however it was used – as the Union Jack. In 1902 an Admiralty Circular announced that either name could be used officially. And in 1908 the UK Parliament approved this verdict, stating that 'the Union Jack should be regarded as the National flag'.

by 1974 this flag was described formally as 'His Majesty's Jack'

I certainly never thought I'd see the day that the death of an African American criminal on the streets of Minneapolis, Minnesota would result in thousands of people taking to the streets of London and Manchester. However that's exactly what's happened. I can't help but wonder if the worst is to yet come.

George Floyd died in police custody on the 25th May 2020. Since that avoidable event unfolded we've seen violent riots erupt in major cities across America and Europe, riots that are being portrayed as peaceful protests by the Anti-White mainstream media.

What we've learnt since the death of Floyd is; firstly his death could of been prevented, we all heard him shout numerous times to the Police that he couldn't breathe and this was ignored by the arresting officers. The officers FAILED in their duty of care for Floyd.

I understand the frustration and anger over the death of Floyd. However there is no justification for the actions of these so called 'peaceful' protesters. In America we've seen shop keepers attacked, shops looted, police officers attacked and murdered, Churches set on fire, historical monuments and statues defaced and vandalized. Even the biggest cheerleaders for Black Lives Matter, CNN, fell victim to the mob and their headquarters attacked.

Simply put, since the death of Floyd, Antifa and Black Lives Matter have gone on a rampage and they claim they're protesting are systemic racism, police brutality and the death of George Floyd.

There are several issues with their narrative:

Firstly, the hypocrisy is breathtaking; thousands of people in this country are so outraged over the death of a black criminal 4000 miles away, that they've decided to take to the streets in the midst of a pandemic. They're quite happy to put others at risk, so long as they can stay trendy, get a selfie, chant black lives matter and make out that they're part of something edgy, organic and righteous.

The very people that have been shaming others for breaching social distancing throughout this Chinese engineered pandemic, are now breaking all the rules and endangering the lives others, but I guess lockdown rules are only being enforced against people that the Police disagree with.

Secondly, why didn't we see thousands of these people take to the streets when there were racist murders committed against the indigenous population? I didn't see any of the BLM or Antifa protesters come out for Emily Jones, Kriss Donald, Ross Parker, Josh, Harry, George or any other victim of crime committed by an Alien. When the Manchester Arena was attacked custody.

In my opinion these protests are about bringing down Western Civilization.

BLM are being used by the Marxists in the hope that they will start a race war. Which, by the way, is a very stupid idea and one that wouldn't work out well for both sides.

Ultimately we must realise that because of the actions of the political class, we have millions of people in our society that have polar opposite beliefs to us. We are an endangered species and we must bound together for the good of our people.

Now more than ever community is key. We must build strong communities that will come together when the situation gets worse. On the anniversary of D-Day BLM activists defaced the statue of arguably our greatest PM Sir Winston Churchill.

Remember the people that are out protesting for BLM are the very same people that hate you, hate our country, it's history and most importantly their end goal is to destroy our way of life. We simply cannot allow that to happen.

You'd think given the Met Police would come down hard on these savages, but instead they've been given a free pass to bring havoc to the streets of our capital.

Cressida Dick Commissioner of the Met Police, the woman that labeled me a threat to democracy and got me banned from Parliament for 5 years, believes that enforcing Lockdown laws against these protesters would lead to violent disorder. Never have I seen such cowardly policing.

We must secure the existence of our people and a future for white children that in Britain, mainly in England, most people have idea about the history of our flag or that three other national flags make up its design.

FOLLOW US ON

Union Jack or Union Flag? A Brief History

When first introduced in 1606, the 'Union Jack' was known simply as the 'British flag' or 'flag of Britain', and was ordered to be flown from the main masthead of all English and Scottish ships, warships and merchant ships.

The name 'Union' first appears in 1625, but what of the term 'jack'?

Various theories exist, but the bulk of the evidence indicates use of the word in its diminutive sense. Before 1600, 'jack' was certainly used to describe a small flag flown from the mast mounted at the end of the bowsprit; by 1627, a small version of the Union flag – later described as the 'Jack', 'Jack flag' or 'King's Jack' – seems to have flown commonly in this position; and by 1674, this flag disappeared, to be replaced by staysails on the stays between bowsprit and foremast. The principal naval distinguishing flag had become the Ensign, so it grew customary to fly the Union Jack only in harbour – and from the 'jackstaff' (a specially rigged staff in the bows).

Note therefore that the 'jack' predated the 'jackstaff' by over 150 years, with the term 'jack' originally denoting size rather than position.

It is sometimes claimed that the Union Flag should be described as the Union Jack only when flown in the bows of a warship, but this is a relatively recent idea. From its earliest days, the Admiralty often referred to the flag – however it was used – as the Union Jack. In 1902 an Admiralty Circular announced that either name could be used officially. And in 1908 the UK Parliament approved this verdict, stating that 'the Union Jack should be regarded as the National flag'.

by 1974 this flag was described formally as 'His Majesty's Jack' we've seen violent riots erupt in major cities across America and Europe, riots that are being portrayed as peaceful protests by the Anti-White mainstream media.

What we've learnt since the death of Floyd is; firstly his death could of been prevented, we all heard him shout numerous times to the Police that he couldn't breathe and this was ignored by the arresting officers. The officers FAILED in their duty of care for Floyd.

I understand the frustration and anger over the death of Floyd. However there is no justification for the actions of these so called 'peaceful' protesters. In America we've seen shop keepers attacked, shops looted, police officers attacked and murdered, Churches set on fire, historical monuments and statues defaced and vandalized. Even the biggest cheerleaders for Black Lives Matter, CNN, fell victim to the mob and their headquarters attacked.

Simply put, since the death of Floyd, Antifa and Black Lives Matter have gone on a rampage and their actions should be classed as domestic terrorism. They are hoping by using violence, that they will be able to bring down Trump.

The protests (RIOTS) have even made their way over to our green and pleasant land, with thousands of people taking to the streets from London to Manchester and Belfast. From what I can gather, the reasons decided to take to the streets in the midst of a pandemic. They're quite happy to put others at risk, so long as they can stay trendy, get a selfie, chant black lives matter and make out that they're part of something edgy, organic and righteous.

The very people that have been shaming others for breaching social distancing throughout this Chinese engineered pandemic, are now breaking all the rules and endangering the lives others, but I guess lockdown rules are only being enforced against people that the Police disagree with.

Secondly, why didn't we see thousands of these people take to the streets when there were racist murders committed against the indigenous population? I didn't see any of the BLM or Antifa protesters come out for Emily Jones, Kriss Donald, Ross Parker, Josh, Harry, George or any other victim of crime committed by an Alien. When the Manchester Arena was attacked and 22 people lost their lives, we were told to 'Not look back in anger' but it is becoming increasingly more difficult not to.

The Black Lives matter protests aren't about Justice For George Floyd, because justice is already being served. All four police officers have been sacked, arrested & charged and are now in state

our people and a future for white children the actions of the political class, we have millions of people in our society that have polar opposite beliefs to us. We are an endangered species and we must bound together for the good of our people.

Now more than ever community is key. We must build strong communities that will come together when the situation gets worse. On the anniversary of D-Day BLM activists defaced the statue of arguably our greatest PM Sir Winston Churchill.

Remember the people that are out protesting for BLM are the very same people that hate you, hate our country, it's history and most importantly their end goal is to destroy our way of life. We simply cannot allow that to happen.

You'd think given the Met Police would come down hard on these savages, but instead they've been given a free pass to bring havoc to the streets of our capital.

Cressida Dick Commissioner of the Met Police, the woman that labeled me a threat to democracy and got me banned from Parliament for 5 years, believes that enforcing Lockdown laws against these protesters would lead to violent disorder. Never have I seen such cowardly policing.

Ultimately I beleive the general population will awaken to the lies of BLM and Antifa. I mean it's hardly like they're giving off great optics is it?

We must secure the existence of our people and a future for white children.

Never have these words meant more!

The Fractured Family

The Office for national Statistics has published a bulletin entitled Families and Households in the UK: 2019.

The report concludes that, in 2019, there were 19.2 million families in the UK.

Married or civil partner couples remain the most common family type in 2019, although they only represent two-thirds of families in a married or civil partnered couple decreased from 68.6% in 2009 to 66.8% in 2019.

Conversely the proportion of families containing a cohabiting couple increased from 15.3% to 18.4%.

This reflects the declining trend seen in the proportion of the population who are married and an increasing trend in the proportion exception - being the population of Northern Ireland - according to the most recent census, has a population of 1.8 million of which 93% identify as Christian.

By contrast, only 59% of the English population identify as Christian, according to the same census.

There were 2.9 million lone parent families in 2019, which recorded the ethnicity of family types which are single parents are as follows: black (24%), mixed (19%), 'other' and white (both 10%) and Asian (8%).

Research has shown that, on average, children who experience single parenthood during their childhood have poorer cognitive outcomes than those that grow up in families that remain 'intact'.

Politics

British Freedom Party

The British Freedom Party's main objective is to preserve the traditions, freedoms and very existence of the British people.

Our policies are conservative and our approach is unwavering. We are the only party that recognises the need for an almost complete overhaul of the current British mindset. Our policies promote national pride, decency and courage among the British people.

We are a party dedicated to the Christian values of our nation and we rebuke the evils of abortion, gay marriage and multiculturalism. We oppose the liberalist bastardisation of religious institutions by Archbishops, Popes, clergy and other so called 'church leaders'.

Our traditionalist approach means we reject the current Individualistic culture of instant self-gratification and instead, promote the healthy concept of the family and community. We believe in the strength and dominance of masculinity and the loyal and neutering aspects of femininity are concepts to be embraced.

We advocate national sovereignty and reject all forms of globalism including the corrupt institute of the European Union.

We strongly support the union between Scotland and the United Kingdom and oppose the repeated demands made by socialist parties

The Fractured Family

The Office for national Statistics has published a bulletin entitled Families and Households in the UK: 2019.

The report concludes that, in 2019, there were 19.2 million families in the UK.

Married or civil partner couples remain the most common family type in 2019, although they only represent two-thirds of families in the UK.

Northern Ireland (72.6%) has the highest proportion of married or civil partner couples and the lowest proportion of cohabiting couples (9.4%).

In the UK over the last 10 years, the proportion of families containing a married or civil partnered couple decreased from 68.6% in 2009 to 66.8% in 2019.

Conversely the proportion of families containing a cohabiting couple increased from 15.3% to 18.4%.

This reflects the declining trend seen in the proportion of the population who are married and an increasing trend in the proportion cohabiting.

These statistics are indicative of an ever increasing secular society whereby traditional values such as marriage are considered secondary to the likes of a second car or an annual holiday.

It is worth noting that the exception - being the population of Northern Ireland - according to the most recent census, has a population of 1.8 million of which 93% identify as Christian.

By contrast, only 59% of the English population identify as Christian, according to the same census.

There were 2.9 million lone parent families in 2019, which is 14.9% of families in the UK; London has the highest proportion (19.1%).

Lone parent mothers remained the most common type of lone parents in 2019, accounting for 86% of this family type.

The single parent statistics recorded the ethnicity of family types which are single parents are as follows: black (24%), mixed (19%), 'other' and white (both 10%) and Asian (8%).

Research has shown that, on average, children who experience single parenthood during their childhood have poorer cognitive outcomes than those that grow up in families that remain 'intact'.

Sociologists imply that children of single parents often receive less effective parenting and discipline.

There is a large body of literature showing that children of single mothers are more likely to commit crimes than children who grow up with their married parents.

existence of the British people.

Our policies are conservative and our approach is unwavering. We are the only party that recognises the need for an almost complete overhaul of the current British mindset. Our policies promote national pride, decency and courage among the British people.

We are a party dedicated to the Christian values of our nation and we rebuke the evils of abortion, gay marriage and multiculturalism. We oppose the liberalist bastardisation of religious institutions by Archbishops, Popes, clergy and other so called 'church leaders'.

Our traditionalist approach means we reject the current Individualistic culture of instant self-gratification and instead, promote the healthy concept of the family and community. We believe in the strength and dominance of masculinity and the loyal and neutering aspects of femininity are concepts to be embraced.

We advocate national sovereignty and reject all forms of globalism including the corrupt institute of the European Union.

We strongly support the union between Scotland and the United Kingdom and oppose the repeated demands made by socialist parties for a second independence referendum. We endorse the Ulster Covenant of 1912 and the British Covenant of 1914.

We are dedicated to ensuring that the freedoms, secured by the bloodshed of our heroes, are retained at all costs.

Pandemic Abortion Coverup

Opportunistic pro-abortion activists all over the world are exploiting the Coronavirus pandemic to push through radical abortion legislation and remove the involvement of forced upon Northern Ireland by Westminster - described the six months following the decriminalisation of abortion as a 'lost opportunity' because no abortions were bearer of the most cruel and extreme piece of abortion legislation in the whole of Europe:

Section 9 of the Northern Ireland Executive Formation Act is even worse than Britain's

The Fractured Family

The Office for national Statistics has published a bulletin entitled Families and Households in the UK: 2019.

The report concludes that, in 2019, there were 19.2 million families in the UK.

Married or civil partner couples remain the most common family type in 2019, although they only represent two-thirds of families in the UK.

Northern Ireland (72.6%) has the highest proportion of married or civil partner couples and the lowest proportion of cohabiting couples (9.4%).

In the UK over the last 10 years, the proportion of families containing a married or civil partnered couple decreased from 68.6% in 2009 to 66.8% in 2019.

Conversely the proportion of families containing a cohabiting couple increased from 15.3% to 18.4%.

This reflects the declining trend seen in the proportion of the population who are married and an increasing trend in the proportion cohabiting.

These statistics are indicative of an ever increasing secular society whereby traditional values such as marriage are considered secondary to the likes of a second car or an annual holiday.

It is worth noting that the exception - being the population of Northern Ireland - according to the most recent census, has a population of 1.8 million of which 93% identify as Christian.

By contrast, only 59% of the English population identify as Christian, according to the same census.

There were 2.9 million lone parent families in 2019, which is 14.9% of families in the UK; London has the highest proportion (19.1%).

Lone parent mothers remained the most common type of lone parents in 2019, accounting for 86% of this family type.

The single parent statistics

recorded the ethnicity of family types which are single parents are as follows: black (24%), mixed (19%), 'other' and white (both 10%) and Asian (8%).

Research has shown that, on average, children who experience single parenthood during their childhood have poorer cognitive outcomes than those that grow up in families that remain 'intact'.

Sociologists imply that children of single parents often receive less effective parenting and discipline.

There is a large body of literature showing that children of single mothers are more likely to commit crimes than children who grow up with their married parents.

individualistic culture of instant self-gratification and instead, promote the healthy concept of the family and community. We believe in the strength and dominance of masculinity and the loyal and neutering aspects of femininity are concepts to be embraced.

We advocate national sovereignty and reject all forms of globalism including the corrupt institute of the European Union.

We strongly support the union between Scotland and the United Kingdom and oppose the repeated demands made by socialist parties for a second independence referendum. We endorse the Ulster Covenant of 1912 and the British Covenant of 1914.

We are dedicated to ensuring that the freedoms, secured by the bloodshed of our heroes, are retained at all costs.

Pandemic Abortion Coverup

Opportunistic pro-abortion activists all over the world are exploiting the Coronavirus pandemic to push through radical abortion legislation and remove the involvement of medical practitioners.

In the United States, those in support of aborting babies have called for the President to legalise 'abortion by mail'; thus removing the necessity for abortion medication to be dispensed in person.

A number of abortionists and pro-abortion advocates are claiming that the COVID19 outbreak is a 'great time' to expand access to telemedicine to those wanting to abort their babies from home calling it 'Self-Managed abortion'.

Here in the UK, Labour MP Diana Johnson - one of the head cheerleaders for the new abortion legislation that has been unilaterally forced upon Northern Ireland by Westminster - described the six months following the decriminalisation of abortion as a 'lost opportunity' because no abortions were performed.

Speaking in the House of Commons, Johnson said: "Of course, abortion was decriminalised in October 2019 and we now see the lost opportunity of this medical procedure not being provided over the last six months in Northern Ireland. The failure to do that means that we are now in a much more difficult position with Covid-19."

The people of Northern Ireland have never been given a say as to whether they want abortion to be legalised in the province.

Yet, at the stroke of midnight on 31st March 2020, Northern Ireland became bearer of the most cruel and extreme piece of abortion legislation in the whole of Europe:

Section 9 of the Northern Ireland Executive Formation Act is even worse than Britain's 1967 Abortion Act or the recent abortion legislation in the Republic of Ireland.

It is now legal to abort a child in Northern Ireland right up to 7 months of pregnancy (28 weeks) for any and no reason. It also allows for abortion up until birth for disabilities such as a cleft lip, clubfoot, or Down Syndrome.

The most drastic of action for the advancement of abortion was taken by New Zealand Prime Minister, Jacinda Ardern, who has rushed through the world's most extreme abortion legislation whilst unsupportive citizens were distracted with the Coronavirus pandemic.

The new Abortion Legislation Bill will mean that New Zealand has the most extreme abortion law in the world, including abortion on demand right up to birth for ANY reason, such as the child being the 'wrong sex' or having a hair lip.

As if that isn't horrifying enough, the new legislation also states that there is no requirement for a doctor to be involved in any abortion and any baby born alive during a failed abortion does not need to be given medical support but can be left to die on the table without any pain relief or medical assistance.

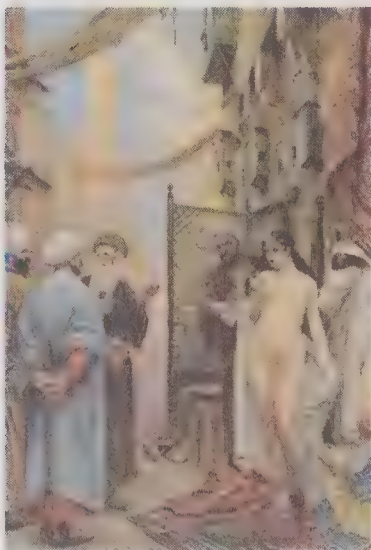

The Hidden history of White Slavery

As the lefties crow about the horrors of the transatlantic slave trade (abolished by the British), the kidnapping and enslavement of our own by the Islamic regimes of North Africa barely gets a mention.

One study suggests that a million or more European Christians were enslaved by Muslims in North Africa between 1530 and 1780.

Raiders from the cities of Tunis and Algiers pillaged British and Irish coastal towns for centuries, depopulating large stretches of our country.

The most infamous case of the horrors inflicted upon our people by the Islamists enslavers was the Sack of Baltimore, an English

The Grooming Gangs Coverup Continues

After several decades of systematic targeting, rape and torture of British children, the Government remain complicit in this national scandal.

The horrors of the grooming scandal in Britain have been unfolding over the past few years and people have become aware of the truly colossal scale of this epidemic.

Across the nation we have learned of sustained systematic targeting, grooming and sexual abuse of British children.

Cases have been revealed from decades ago, all of which were covered up by police and social services who feared being called 'racist'.

It has now been admitted by the authorities involved in this scandalous cover up that the reason they feared being labelled racist is because the perpetrators of these heinous acts are predominantly Pakistani Muslim men and their victims were predominantly white British girls.

So, as more and more people became aware of these facts, we, the people of Britain demanded more and more answers.

no-go areas of inquiry".

"I will not let cultural or political sensitivities get in the way of understanding the problem and doing something about it," he said at the time.

However, following completion further division. The government will continue to challenge these views and to help communities unite."

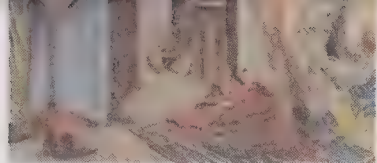

What an absolutely disgraceful cop out.

Lets get real for a minute, if the review concluded that even half themselves, that the men committing these crimes were predominantly Pakistani Muslims.

Not Asians, as the mainstream media like to say.

These men are not Sikhs from India or Buddhists from Sri Lanka

The Hidden history of White Slavery

As the lefties crow about the horrors of the transatlantic slave trade (abolished by the British), the kidnapping and enslavement of our own by the Islamic regimes of North Africa barely gets a mention.

One study suggests that a million or more European Christians were enslaved by Muslims in North Africa between 1530 and 1780.

Raiders from the cities of Tunis and Algiers pillaged British and Irish coastal towns for centuries, depopulating large stretches of our country.

The most infamous case of the horrors inflicted upon our people by the Islamists enslavers was the Sack of Baltimore, an English settlement in County Cork, Ireland 237 men, women and children were forced onto ships destined for the Mediterranean where they were sold off to the highest bidder.

Between 1677 and 1680 alone, 160 British ships were captured by Algerians, their choice: slavery or death!

No memorial stands to the British victims of the Islamic slave trade, no documentaries have ever been commissioned by the leftie loonies in charge of the BBC, and you certainly will not find this chapter of British history taught in our schools, lest it offends our rap and torture of British children, the Government remain complicit in this national scandal.

The horrors of the grooming scandal in Britain have been unfolding over the past few years and people have become aware of the truly colossal scale of this epidemic.

Across the nation we have learned of sustained systematic targeting, grooming and sexual abuse of British children.

Cases have been revealed from decades ago, all of which were covered up by police and social services who feared being called 'racist'.

It has now been admitted by the authorities involved in this scandalous cover up that the reason they feared being labelled racist is because the perpetrators of these heinous acts are predominantly Pakistani Muslim men and their victims were predominantly white British girls.

So, as more and more people became aware of these facts, we, the people of Britain demanded more and more answers.

Then came an official review, finally the government were going to give us some answers, or so we thought.

Sajid Javid first who was Home Secretary at the time, promised a review in July 2018 and said that abusers convicted in high-profile cases had been "disproportionately from a Pakistani background".

But still, in June 2020, after countless demands, petitions and campaigns, the government are STILL refusing to release the review to the British public.

Sajid Javid promised the review as Home Secretary in July 2018,

no-go areas of inquiry".

"I will not let cultural or political sensitivities get in the way of understanding the problem and doing something about it," he said at the time.

However, following completion of the review, and subsequent demands for it to be published in full, the government are being anything but transparent.

Instead, in an official statement, the Home Office refer to the review as 'internal' and go on to excuse their blatant and ongoing refusal to publish the review by claiming "Extremists may also seek further division. The government will continue to challenge these views and to help communities unite."

What an absolutely disgraceful cop out.

Lets get real for a minute, if the review concluded that even half of the perpetrators were white British men, the Home Office would have had it laminated and delivered to every household in Britain to point out that there are good and bad in every community.

Which, of course

there are, but it is an undisputed fact, backed up by countless testimonies of police officers, social themselves, that the men committing these crimes were predominantly Pakistani Muslims.

Not Asians, as the mainstream media like to say.

These men are not Sikhs from India or Buddhists from Sri Lanka or Hindus from Nepal, they are Pakistani Muslim men preying on British girls.

This is just the latest act of utter contempt shown by the British government towards the hundreds of thousands of British children who have been groomed, raped and tortured by these monsters.

The government have the blood of our children on their hands and this vicious sexual grooming is STILL happening in almost every town across the UK.

The British establishment have aided and abetted the most horrific abuse of our innocent children for far too long, it is time they were held to or North Africa barely gets a mention.

One study suggests that a million or more European Christians were enslaved by Muslims in North Africa between 1530 and 1780.

Raiders from the cities of Tunis and Algiers pillaged British and Irish coastal towns for centuries, depopulating large stretches of our country.

The most infamous case of the horrors inflicted upon our people by the Islamists enslavers was the Sack of Baltimore, an English settlement in County Cork, Ireland 237 men, women and children were forced onto ships destined for the Mediterranean where they were sold off to the highest bidder.

Between 1677 and 1680 alone, 160 British ships were captured by Algerians, their choice: slavery or death!

No memorial stands to the British victims of the Islamic slave trade, no documentaries have ever been commissioned by the leftie loonies in charge of the BBC, and you certainly will not find this chapter of British history taught in our schools, lest it offends our Muslim guests.

covered up by police and social services who feared being called 'racist'.

It has now been admitted by the authorities involved in this scandalous cover up that the reason they feared being labelled racist is because the perpetrators of these heinous acts are predominantly Pakistani Muslim men and their victims were predominantly white British girls.

So, as more and more people became aware of these facts, we, the people of Britain demanded more and more answers.

Then came an official review, finally the government were going to give us some answers, or so we thought.

Sajid Javid first who was Home Secretary at the time, promised a review in July 2018 and said that abusers convicted in high-profile cases had been "disproportionately from a Pakistani background".

But still, in June 2020, after countless demands, petitions and campaigns, the government are STILL refusing to release the review to the British public.

Sajid Javid promised the review as Home Secretary in July 2018, pledging that there would be "no no-go areas of inquiry".

"I will not let cultural or political sensitivities get in the way of understanding the problem and doing something about it," he said at the time.

However, following completion of the review, and subsequent demands for it to be published in full, the government are being anything but transparent.

Instead, in an official statement, the Home Office refer to the review as 'internal' and go on to excuse their blatant and ongoing refusal to publish the review by claiming "Extremists may also seek to exploit legitimate concerns to sow further division. The government will continue to challenge these views and to help communities unite."

What an absolutely disgraceful cop out.

Lets get real for a minute, if the review concluded that even half of the perpetrators were white British men, the Home Office would have had it laminated and delivered to every household in Britain to point out that there are good and bad in every community.

Which, of course

there are, but it is an undisputed fact, backed up by countless testimonies of police officers, social services staff AND abused children themselves, that the men committing these crimes were predominantly Pakistani Muslims.

Not Asians, as the mainstream media like to say.

These men are not Sikhs from India or Buddhists from Sri Lanka or Hindus from Nepal, they are Pakistani Muslim men preying on British girls.

This is just the latest act of utter contempt shown by the British government towards the hundreds of thousands of British children who have been groomed, raped and tortured by these monsters.

The government have the blood of our children on their hands and this vicious sexual grooming is STILL happening in almost every town across the UK.

The British establishment have aided and abetted the most horrific abuse of our innocent children for far too long, it is time they were held to account.

We Fight for Britain, NOT Germany!

The most common slur levelled at British nationalists by our enemies is that we are Hitler-worshippers and closet fascists.

As a people whose ancestors fought against Nazi tyranny In Europe, this is probably the most galling and fallacious accusation in their arsenal.

While the British Left flirted with Marshall Stalin and supported his joint invasion of Poland with Nazi Germany, it was the British nationalists that answered the pleas of Europeans under attack by the Nazi war machine.

Since the immediate post war period, patriots have been on guard, purging Nazi cranks from within our ranks. The same cannot be said of the British Left with the legions of Stalinists and other communist sympathisers often making up a sizable chunk of their street armies and political leaders.

We Britons have no time for the Himmler's of this world when we ourselves have produced titans of the calibre of Nelson and Churchill.

When we face down the enemies of our people, it is Britain we fight for, not Germany or Fascism!

Why British Nationalism has failed...until NOW!

Successive nationalist leaders in this country have presented to the great British public an ideology fleshed out in the European theatre which contains ingredients alien to OUR culture and historical collective memory and social experience.

20th century British nationalism has also carried a virulent strain of anti-Christian malevolence. We see this clearly in the nationalist propensity to ridicule the faith of our fathers these 1,500 years in favour of various manifestations and interpretations of Germanic gods, or the pagan beliefs of our people thousands of years previous.

And if you raise the banner of Nietzsche, especially if the audience has recently started shaving then your words will be hung onto like a prophet of old. Odd considering that he who preached the superman idea was himself a syphilitated, physical weed who was sexually inadequate, emotionally fragile cuckold who railed against his Christian Pastor father all his life and drove himself mad.

From Mosley to Tyndale to Webster, all have tried to impose a north European national socialist atheist or (pagan) ideology on the British patriotic constituents within our population with very little success. Even today we British are far more insular, parochial and patriotic than any of our European neighbours yet they have built huge nationalist movements and we, sadly, have utterly failed.

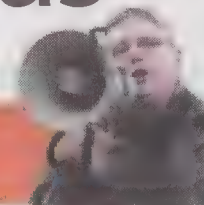

Our task is to tap into the existing rich cultural DNA that permeates our lives and that includes celebrating/exploiting our Christian heritage and the social markers that regulate our society.

For those who think we have no such things, ponder these social regulators: Christmas, Good Friday, Easter, Saints Days, Pancake Tuesday, All Souls (Halloween), baptisms, christenings, weddings, conformations, funerals.

European patriots have always had to supplement their faith with a political way to manifest their national pride as their majority faith was subservient to a foreign power.

We must never, ever surrender.

Jayda Fransen

Activism

Community Assistance

British Freedom Party activists have been out across the United Kingdom offering a community Assistance programme for the elderly, vulnerable and infirm.

The programme was introduced by party leader Jayda Fransen following the lockdown measures placed upon all residents in throughout the UK.

Teams of volunteers across mainland Britain and Northern Ireland have provided those who have been instructed to 'shield' during this period of lockdown with cards to place in their windows to signify to their local British Freedom Party volunteer that they are either ok or they are in need of help.

Volunteers are regularly patrolling their local areas to check if anyone is in need of assistance, which they can do by simply changing the card in their window from 'I AM OK' to 'I NEED HELP'.

Successive nationalist leaders in this country have presented to the great British public an ideology fleshed out in the European theatre which contains ingredients alien to OUR culture and historical collective memory and social experience.

20th century British nationalism has also carried a virulent strain of anti-Christian malevolence. We see this clearly in the nationalist propensity to ridicule the faith of our fathers these 1,500 years in favour of various manifestations and interpretations of Germanic gods, or the pagan beliefs of our people thousands of years previous.

And if you raise the banner of Nietzsche, especially if the audience has recently started shaving then your words will be hung onto like a prophet of old. Odd considering that he who preached the superman idea was himself a syphilis-ridden, physical weed who was sexually inadequate, emotionally fragile cuckold who railed against his Christian Pastor father all his life and drove himself mad.

Not someone any sane person should aspire to emulate yet millions do, well, mainly immature boys or arrogant would-be 'free thinkers' or just the plain daft who think anything the Nazis liked must be cool. Pathetic stuff really.

I know that devout, church attending Christians are not in the numbers they once enjoyed but most British people are so deeply entwined with cultural Christianity they don't even know it by large. On the other hand there are still 5 million regular churchgoers in this

From Mosley to Tyndale to Webster, all have tried to impose a north European national socialist atheist or (pagan) ideology on the British patriotic constituents within our population with very little success. Even today we British are far more insular, parochial and patriotic than any of our European neighbours yet they have built huge nationalist movements and we, sadly, have utterly failed.

Our task is to tap into the existing rich cultural DNA that permeates our lives and that includes celebrating/exploiting our Christian heritage and the social markers that regulate our society.

For those who think we have no such things, ponder these social regulators: Christmas, Good Friday, Easter, Saints Days, Pancake Tuesday, All Souls (Halloween), baptisms, christenings, weddings, confirmations, funerals.

European patriots have always had to supplement their faith with a political way to manifest their national pride as their majority faith was subservient to a foreign power. However since the reformation our British nation, patriotic identity and pride have been completely immersed in our peculiar and defiant faith. Indeed that was what separated us from Europe these last 500 years

Infact look now at Hungary, Poland, Serbia, all countries where we look on astonished at the power in nationalism and its rise but the absolute reason for this is each of these countries are almost fanatically Christian, Catholic, Protestant see the Cross and their weaken our resolve to the point of assured defeat.

I personally have no survival exit strategy and hold fast to the principle: better to fight to the last man, woman and child (I say this with 10 bountiful grandchildren in mind) than give up one square inch of OUR country to the Islamic invaders.

Better we are remembered in history as the people who could not be tamed, intimidated or conquered than those who put up a bit of a fight then conformed in order to save our skins. We must never, ever surrender. Death is glorious when surviving means conversion to the cult of the false god of the invaders.

We must never, ever surrender.

British Freedom Party activists have been out across the United Kingdom offering a community Assistance programme for the elderly, vulnerable and infirm.

The programme was introduced by party leader Jayda Fransen following the lockdown measures placed upon all residents in throughout the UK.

Teams of volunteers across mainland Britain and Northern Ireland have provided those who have been instructed to 'shield' during this period of lockdown with cards to place in their windows to signify to their local British Freedom Party volunteer that they are either ok or they are in need of help.

Volunteers are regularly patrolling their local areas to check if anyone is in need of assistance, which they can do by simply changing the card in their window from 'I AM OK' to 'I NEED HELP'.

The programme has been a huge help to some of the most vulnerable people in our society.

people thousands of years previous.

And if you raise the banner of Nietzsche, especially if the audience has recently started shaving then your words will be hung onto like a prophet of old. Odd considering that he who preached the superman idea was himself a syphillited, physical weed who was sexually inadequate, emotionally fragile cuckold who railed against his Christian Pastor father all his life and drove himself mad.

Not someone any sane person should aspire to emulate yet millions do, well, mainly immature boys or arrogant would-be 'free thinkers' or just the plain daft who think anything the Nazis liked must be cool. Pathetic stuff really.

I know that devout, church attending Christians are not in the numbers they once enjoyed but most British people are so deeply entwined with cultural Christianity they don't even know it by large. On the other hand there are still 5 million regular church goers in this country and only 1.1 million attend ALL football matches in all leagues and divisions combined!

The DNA of English/British Christianity was, and still is, who we are. A man may leave the army after 20 years' service and be far away from his discarded uniform but to any observer one can see by his mannerisms, behaviour and walk that 'he might be out of the army, but the army is has never been out of him'. And so it is with us and our Christian social and collective experience. We are what our history has made us and to jettison this will render us irrelevant.

markers that regulate our society.

For those who think we have no such things, ponder these social regulators: Christmas, Good Friday, Easter, Saints Days, Pancake Tuesday, All Souls (Halloween), baptisms, christenings, weddings, conformations, funerals.

European patriots have always had to supplement their faith with a political way to manifest their national pride as their majority faith was subservient to a foreign power. However since the reformation our British nation, patriotic identity and pride have been completely immersed in our peculiar and defiant faith. Indeed that was what separated us from Europe these last 500 years

Infact look now at Hungary, Poland, Serbia, all countries where we look on astonished at the power in nationalism and its rise but the absolute reason for this is each of these countries are almost fanatically Christian, Catholic, Protestant see the Cross and their flag as one wholly indivisible entity and hence they are winning this fight while we are losing and losing badly.

Make no mistake, there are many of the ruling elite and sadly many Racial nationalist who would readily convert but for different reasons. One to retain wealth and influence, and the other for more nefarious reasons. Several well respected nationalists have said to me over the years, 'better a surviving white Muslim Britain than no Britain at all'.

I utterly and completely reject this abomination and suggest this back up 'survival strategy' would weaken our resolve to the point of assured defeat.

I personally have no survival exit strategy and hold fast to the principle: better to fight to the last man, women and child (I say this with 10 bountiful grandchildren in mind) than give up one square inch of OUR country to the Islamic invaders.

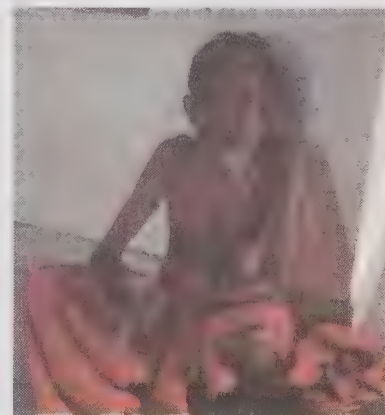

Better we are remembered in history as the people who could not be tamed, intimidated or conquered than those who put up a bit of a fight then conformed in order to save our skins. We must never, ever surrender. Death is glorious when surviving means conversion to the cult of the false god of the invaders.

Priest beheads man to end Coronavirus

A drunk Hindu priest in India claimed he was ordered by a goddess in his dream to sacrifice a human.

70-year-old Sansari Ojha decapitated a man as a sacrifice to end the coronavirus pandemic after smoking marijuana.

Police said Ojha was heavily drunk at the time and surrendered the same day after coming to his senses. The murder weapon has been seized from the shrine.

Teams of volunteers across mainland Britain and Northern Ireland have provided those who have been instructed to 'shield' during this period of lockdown with cards to place in their windows to signify to their local British Freedom Party volunteer that they are either ok or they are in need of help.

Volunteers are regularly patrolling their local areas to check if anyone is in need of assistance, which they can do by simply changing the card in their window from 'I AM OK' to 'I NEED HELP'.

The programme has been a huge help to some of the most vulnerable people in our society.

Volunteers have assisted people with everyday tasks such as shopping, putting bins out, changing a lightbulb, to fixing an elderly ladies flooring and providing gardening services. All of this is done voluntarily in the hope that it might make this very difficult time a little easier for those who can struggle with day to day tasks.

This is one of many community based programmes that the British Freedom Party will be running nationwide as we recognise that community building is the only way to preserve our culture and secure a future for our people.

The Glorious Revolution and its legacy today

The English Bill of Rights was an act signed into law in 1689 by William III and Mary II, who became co-rulers in England after the overthrow of King James II.

The bill outlined specific constitutional and civil rights and ultimately gave Parliament power over the monarchy. Many experts regard the English Bill of Rights as the primary law that set the stage for a constitutional monarchy in England. It's also credited as being an inspiration for the U.S. Bill of Rights.

Glorious Revolution

The Glorious Revolution, which took place in England from 1688-1689, involved the ousting of King James II.

Both political and religious motives sparked the revolution. Many English citizens were distrustful of the Catholic king and disapproved of the monarchy's outright power.

Tensions were high between Parliament and the king, and Catholics and Protestants were also at odds.

the Crown."

Among its many provisions, the Bill of Rights condemned King James II for abusing his power and declared that the monarchy could not rule without consent of the Parliament.

What's in the Bill of Rights?

The English Bill of Rights includes the following items:

- A list of King James's misdeeds

- 13 articles that outlined specific freedoms

- Confirmation that William and Mary were rightful successors to the throne of England

In general, the Bill of Rights limited the power of the monarchy, elevated the status of Parliament and outlined specific rights of individuals.

Some of the key liberties and concepts laid out in the articles include:

- Freedom to elect members of Parliament, without the king or queen's interference

- Freedom of speech in Parliament

- Freedom from royal interference with the law

- Freedom to petition the king

Parliament should be summoned frequently and the succession of the throne would be passed to Mary's sister, Princess Anne of Denmark, and her heirs (than to any heirs of William by a later marriage).

Constitutional Monarchy

The English Bill of Rights created a constitutional monarchy in England, meaning the king or queen acts as head of state but his or her powers are limited by law.

Under this system, the monarchy couldn't rule without the consent of Parliament, and the people were given individual rights. In the modern-day British constitutional monarchy, the king or queen plays a largely ceremonial role.

An earlier historical document, the 1215 Magna Carta of England, is also credited with limiting the powers of the monarchy and is sometimes cited as a precursor to the English Bill of Rights.

John Locke

Many historians also believe that the ideas of English philosopher John Locke greatly influenced the content of the Legacy of the English Bill of Rights

The English Bill of Rights has had a long-lasting impact on the role of government in England. It's also influenced laws, documents and ideologies in the United States, Canada, Australia, Ireland, New Zealand and other countries.

The act limited the power of the monarchy, but it also bolstered the rights and liberties of individual citizens. Without the English Bill of Rights, the role of the monarchy might be much different than it is today.

There's no question that this one act greatly affected how the English government operates and served as a stepping stone for modern-day democracies.

The bill outlined specific constitutional and civil rights and ultimately gave Parliament power over the monarchy. Many experts regard the English Bill of Rights as the primary law that set the stage for a constitutional monarchy in England. It's also credited as being an inspiration for the U.S. Bill of Rights.

Glorious Revolution

The Glorious Revolution, which took place in England from 1688-1689, involved the ousting of King James II.

Both political and religious motives sparked the revolution. Many English citizens were distrustful of the Catholic king and disapproved of the monarchy's outright power.

Tensions were high between Parliament and the king, and Catholics and Protestants were also at odds.

James II was eventually replaced by his Protestant daughter, Mary, and her Dutch husband, William of Orange. The two leaders formed a joint monarchy and agreed to give Parliament more rights and power.

Part of this settlement included signing the English Bill of Rights, which was formally known as "An Act Declaring the Rights and Liberties of the Subject and Settling the Succession of consent of the Parliament.

What's in the Bill of Rights?

The English Bill of Rights includes the following items:

A list of King James's misdeeds

13 articles that outlined specific freedoms

Confirmation that William and Mary were rightful successors to the throne of England

In general, the Bill of Rights limited the power of the monarchy, elevated the status of Parliament and outlined specific rights of individuals.

Some of the key liberties and concepts laid out in the articles include:

Freedom to elect members of Parliament, without the king or queen's interference

Freedom of speech in Parliament

Freedom from royal interference with the law

Freedom to petition the king

Freedom to bear arms for self-defense

Freedom from cruel and unusual punishment and excessive bail

Freedom from taxation by royal prerogative, without the agreement of Parliament

Freedom of fines and forfeitures without a trial

Freedom from armies being raised during peacetimes

Other important provisions were that Roman Catholics couldn't be king or queen, William by a later marriage).

Constitutional Monarchy

The English Bill of Rights created a constitutional monarchy in England, meaning the king or queen acts as head of state but his or her powers are limited by law.

Under this system, the monarchy couldn't rule without the consent of Parliament, and the people were given individual rights. In the modern-day British constitutional monarchy, the king or queen plays a largely ceremonial role.

An earlier historical document, the 1215 Magna Carta of England, is also credited with limiting the powers of the monarchy and is sometimes cited as a precursor to the English Bill of Rights.

John Locke

Many historians also believe that the ideas of English philosopher John Locke greatly influenced the content of the Bill of Rights. Locke proposed that the role of the government is to protect its citizens' natural rights.

The Bill of Rights was quickly followed by the 1689 Mutiny Act, which limited the maintenance of a standing army during peacetime to one year.

In 1701, the English Bill of Rights was supplemented by England's Act of Settlement, which was essentially designed to further ensure Protestant succession to the throne.

Zealand and other countries.

The act limited the power of the monarchy, but it also bolstered the rights government operates and served as a stepping stone for modern-day democracies.

A flag for every home!

Remember when we were proud to be British and every summer we had flags on every house.

The Glorious Revolution, which took place in England from 1688-1689, involved the ousting of King James II.

Both political and religious motives sparked the revolution. Many English citizens were distrustful of the Catholic king and disapproved of the monarchy's outright power.

Tensions were high between Parliament and the king, and Catholics and Protestants were also at odds.

James II was eventually replaced by his Protestant daughter, Mary, and her Dutch husband, William of Orange. The two leaders formed a joint monarchy and agreed to give Parliament more rights and power.

Part of this settlement included signing the English Bill of Rights, which was formally known as "An Act Declaring the Rights and Liberties of the Subject and Settling the Succession of

In general, the Bill of Rights limited the power of the monarchy, elevated the status of Parliament and outlined specific rights of individuals.

Some of the key liberties and concepts laid out in the articles include:

Freedom to elect members of Parliament, without the king or queen's interference

Freedom of speech in Parliament

Freedom from royal interference with the law

Freedom to petition the king

Freedom to bear arms for self-defense

Freedom from cruel and unusual punishment and excessive bail

Freedom from taxation by royal prerogative, without the agreement of Parliament

Freedom of fines and forfeitures without a trial

Freedom from armies being raised during peacetimes

Other important provisions were that Roman Catholics couldn't be king or queen, the king or queen plays a largely ceremonial role.

An earlier historical document, the 1215 Magna Carta of England, is also credited with limiting the powers of the monarchy and is sometimes cited as a precursor to the English Bill of Rights.

John Locke

Many historians also believe that the ideas of English philosopher John Locke greatly influenced the content of the Bill of Rights. Locke proposed that the role of the government is to protect its citizens' natural rights.

The Bill of Rights was quickly followed by the 1689 Mutiny Act, which limited the maintenance of a standing army during peacetime to one year.

In 1701, the English Bill of Rights was supplemented by England's Act of Settlement, which was essentially designed to further ensure Protestant succession to the throne.

A flag for every home!

Remember when we were proud to be British and every summer, we had flags on every house, bunting on every street and all around the district we had magnificent arches erected that were the marvel of the world?

Local British Freedom Party volunteers want to put the pride back in our community, so we have decided to get together and start a journey of putting some pride back!

CALL: 07554599481

to arrange a time that suites you and we will be there.

Racial Hatred: Rioters Burn our Flag & Deface our Memorials

Nationalists and all sensible, decent British people were shocked to their core by the senseless violence and mayhem unleashed by Black lives matter and their unwashed left-wing allies.

Tens of thousands of people (flouting the government's social distancing guidelines) rampaged through our streets, causing havoc, rioting, attacking police officers and vandalising statues of some of Britain's most iconic statesmen and war heroes.

The BBC and the rest of the step further and put the national flags that adorn the Cenotaph to flame.

Patriots from all corners of Britain, but especially in London, came out in droves to protect our national monuments, putting themselves directly in the line of fire while our police stood idle or simply ran away.

especially of the Labour variety have endorsed and even taken part in the "peaceful" protests that have resulted in scores of injured police officers.

The damage done to our image abroad is unquantifiable. Images of lily-livered policemen and women fleeing for the hills in the face of Black Lives Matter thugs were beamed across the world, but even foreigners must have been aghast at the sight of Britain's most treasured monuments, monuments that have stood in some cases for generations,

Free Advocacy Service for victims of abuse of Police Power

Following Boris Johnson's announcement of Covid-19 lockdown measures in the UK on 23rd March, British Freedom Party leader Jayda Fransen anticipated an abuse of police powers was imminent.

She was right.

Members of the great British public were issued fines, unlawfully questioned; one woman was even found guilty of a non-existent crime!

The new 'Covid Cops' were revelling in what they perceived to be limitless power.

Footage spread like wildfire of officers threatening to taser in her absence and without representation, she was convicted in a court of law, of a crime that doesn't exist.

Thankfully, that woman had her conviction withdrawn by the CPS, but only after they, the police AND the judiciary played out their totalitarian fantasy and found her guilty of an imaginary crime.

I care about my people and their wellbeing, whether that be protecting the elderly from a virus or defending the liberties of my fellow Brits.

Having previously worked

Racial Hatred: Rioters Burn our Flag & Deface our Memorials

Nationalists and all sensible, decent British people were shocked to their core by the senseless violence and mayhem unleashed by Black lives matter and their unwashed left-wing allies.

Tens of thousands of people (flouting the government's social distancing guidelines) rampaged through our streets, causing havoc, rioting, attacking police officers and vandalising statues of some of Britain's most iconic statesmen and war heroes.

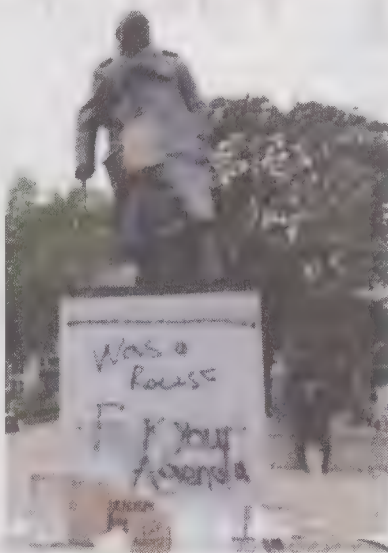

The BBC and the rest of the enemy media lauded these thugs and vandals, while suppressing nationalist voices, furious at the desecration of Britain's most iconic landmarks and the barbaric assault on the outnumbered police officers.

First, they came for the statue of Edward Colston, a Bristol native and M.P, who's vast wealth helped forge the Bristol of today. Then the statue Britain's great war time leader, Winston Churchill, was next on their hit list.

Graffiti and communistic slogans were plastered all over his famous statue, even the Cenotaph, the great war memorial to the 800,000

step further and put the national flags that adorn the Cenotaph to flame.

Patriots from all corners of Britain, but especially in London, came out in droves to protect our national monuments, putting themselves directly in the line of fire while our police stood idle or simple ran away.

Why was it left to the ordinary citizens of this nation to protect the memory of our heroes? Why did the Police forces throughout this nation give free reign to the thugs of Black Lives Matter and Antifa to wreak especially of the Labour variety have endorsed and even taken part in the "peaceful" protests that have resulted in scores of injured police officers.

The damage done to our image abroad in unquantifiable. Images of lily-livered policemen and women fleeing for the hills in the face of Black Lives Matter thugs were beamed across the world, but even foreigners must have been aghast at the sight of Britain's most treasured monuments, monuments that have stood in some cases for generations, tarnished by spoilt immigrants, university students, and liberal swine.

What does Winston Churchill, or the young men that gave their lives on the battlefields of Europe have to do with the killing of a black criminal four thousand miles away in the USA? Nothing!

But the lefties and their proxy immigrant warriors only need the most tenuous of excuses to sully this nation's sacred monuments, and they can sleep soundly at night knowing that neither the media nor the law will come knocking on their door.

If anything, the events of the last few weeks have shown the British

Following Boris Johnson's announcement of Covid-19 lockdown measures in the UK on 23rd March, British Freedom Party leader Jayda Fransen anticipated an abuse of police powers was imminent.

She was right.

Members of the great British public were issued fines, unlawfully questioned; one woman was even found guilty of a non-existent crime!

The new 'Covid Cops' were revelling in what they perceived to be limitless power.

Footage spread like wildfire of officers threatening to taser a man taking food to his elderly aunt, a mob of police breaking into a man's house with no search Warrant, even interrogating a man who stopped to put sun cream on his baby.

This footage sparked outrage and people were uncertain as to what was legal and what was not.

Determined to help her people and putting her background in law to good use, Jayda Fransen established a free Advocacy Service available to all British citizens who found themselves the victims of an abuse of police power.

in her absence and without representation, she was convicted in a court of law, of a crime that doesn't exist.

Thankfully, that woman had her conviction withdrawn by the CPS, but only after they, the police AND the judiciary played out their totalitarian fantasy and found her guilty of an imaginary crime.

I care about my people and their wellbeing, whether that be protecting the elderly from a virus or defending the liberties of my fellow Brits.

Having previously worked in the legal industry for many years, I also have a keen interest in the law and its application.

I am certain, just from the videos that I have seen, that there have been and will be MANY more instances of the police abusing their powers.

So I decided to do something about that.

I am launching a free advocacy service to any of my fellow Britons that have been subject to this tyrannical and unlawful policing.

Nationalists and all sensible, decent British people were shocked to their core by the senseless violence and mayhem unleashed by Black lives matter and their unwashed left-wing allies.

Tens of thousands of people (flouting the government's social distancing guidelines) rampaged through our streets, causing havoc, rioting, attacking police officers and vandalising statues of some of Britain's most iconic statesmen and war heroes.

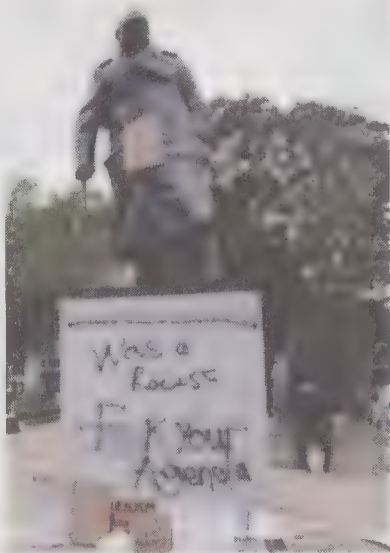

The BBC and the rest of the enemy media lauded these thugs and vandals, while suppressing nationalist voices, furious at the desecration of Britain's most iconic landmarks and the barbaric assault on the outnumbered police officers.

First, they came for the statue of Edward Colston, a Bristol native and M.P. who's vast wealth helped forge the Bristol of today. Then the statue Britain's great war time leader, Winston Churchill, was next on their hit list.

Graffiti and communistic slogans were plastered all over his famous statue, even the Cenotaph, the great war memorial to the 800,000 brave young men that lost their lives during the first World War. One mindless loon, high on moral self-righteousness, decided to go one step further and put the national flags that adorn the Cenotaph to flame.

Patriots from all corners of Britain, but especially in London, came out in droves to protect our national monuments, putting themselves directly in the line of fire while our police stood idle or simply ran away.

Why was it left to the ordinary citizens of this nation to protect the memory of our heroes? Why did the Police forces throughout this nation give free reign to the thugs of Black Lives Matter and Antifa to wreak havoc?

Hardly a word of condemnation has fallen from the lips of our spineless political class, many, especially of the Labour variety have endorsed and even taken part in the "peaceful" protests that have resulted in scores of injured police officers.

The damage done to our image abroad is unquantifiable. Images of lily-livered policemen and women fleeing for the hills in the face of Black Lives Matter thugs were beamed across the world, but even foreigners must have been aghast at the sight of Britain's most treasured monuments, monuments that have stood in some cases for generations, tarnished by spoilt immigrants, university students, and liberal swine.

What does Winston Churchill, or the young men that gave their lives on the battlefields of Europe have to do with the killing of a black criminal four thousand miles away in the USA? Nothing!

But the lefties and their proxy immigrant warriors only need the most tenuous of excuses to sully this nation's sacred monuments, and they can sleep soundly at night knowing that neither the media nor the law will come knocking on their door.

If anything, the events of the last few weeks have shown the British people that the law is no longer on our side; it is one rule for patriots and another one for criminal immigrants and violent, left-wing agitators.

lockdown measures in the UK on 23rd March, British Freedom Party leader Jayda Fransen anticipated an abuse of police powers was imminent.

She was right.

Members of the great British public were issued fines, unlawfully questioned; one woman was even found guilty of a non-existent crime!

The new 'Covid Cops' were revelling in what they perceived to be limitless power.

Footage spread like wildfire of officers threatening to taser a man taking food to his elderly aunt, a mob of police breaking into a man's house with no search Warrant, even interrogating a man who stopped to put sun cream on his baby.

This footage sparked outrage and people were uncertain as to what was legal and what was not.

Determined to help her people and putting her background in law to good use, Jayda Fransen established a free Advocacy Service available to all British citizens who found themselves the victims of an abuse of police power.

Jayda said:

I have witnessed incident after incident over the past few weeks of the police shamelessly abusing their powers against my people.

People have been unlawfully fined, interrogated, screamed at, threatened with pepper spray, handcuffed and, most concerning of all, a lady was arrested, held in a cell for two nights, then, convicted in a court of law, or a crime that doesn't exist.

Thankfully, that woman had her conviction withdrawn by the CPS, but only after they, the police AND the judiciary played out their totalitarian fantasy and found her guilty of an imaginary crime.

I care about my people and their wellbeing, whether that be protecting the elderly from a virus or defending the liberties of my fellow Brits.

Having previously worked in the legal industry for many years, I also have a keen interest in the law and its application.

I am certain, just from the videos that I have seen, that there have been and will be MANY more instances of the police abusing their powers.

So I decided to do something about that.

I am launching a free advocacy service to any of my fellow Britons that have been subject to this tyrannical and unlawful policing.

The British Freedom Party will offer help to those who feel they have had their rights infringed upon.

To all of my fellow Britons, stay calm, stay safe and stay free."

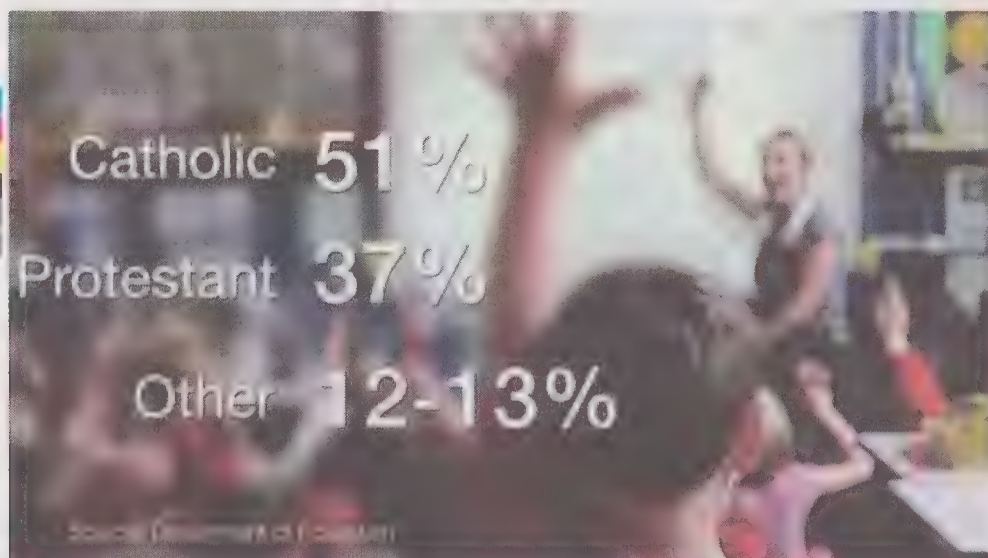

If you or anyone you know has been the subject of what you believe might be an abuse of police powers during this Covid-19 lockdown, then contact us by visiting www.BritishFreedomParty.com.

FREE BADGES!
Visit our website today to claim yours!

www.britishfreedomparty.com

Demographics of Ulster

First you're a majority, then you're a minority, then you get persecuted, then you die off. That's how everyone warning about mass immigration and the Great Replacement sees it. There's some truth in it, but the experience of Ulster loyalism tells us it's not quite as simple as that. And it certainly shows us that there's plenty that can be done about it – especially in mainland Britain.

First, we all need to take a realistic look at the situation of the Ulster unionists. Next year is the 100th anniversary of the creation of Northern Ireland as a mini-state in which the Protestant Unionists – a minority on the island as a whole – would be the majority and put the Protestant population at 48% and Catholics at 45%, but the demographic shift has speeded up since then. Five years later, 44% of working age were Catholic and 40% Protestant. Only among the over 60s is there a majority of Protestants, 57%, compared to 35% Catholics. The Protestants' numerical advantage slumped from 9% to 3% in just ten years.

The British Freedom Party is not sectarian, but we are staunchly pro-Union. We know that the old religious affiliations don't carry anything like the weight they used to, especially on the Catholic side.

But in Northern Ireland the labels mark tribal divisions. It's steadily shrinking.

The British will be the minority in our own homeland by 2060. We already are in London and Birmingham. It's not just immigration; it's mainly because the immigrant communities have more children than ours, and because our much older population is dying more quickly than theirs.

What is happening in Northern Ireland is happening in England, Scotland and Wales too. Children grow up and have families of their own, old people will die – there is nothing that anyone can do to stop it.

The leaders of the Protestant Unionist Loyalist (PUL) community – the politicians, the Loyal Orders, etc – still don't Refusing to face facts won't change them. The future is among schoolchildren, where 51% are Catholic and just 37% Protestant.

On the mainland, thousands of patriots rallied to defend statues which are part of our identity. But, here too, if you want to see the future, look at the average age of the patriots, the average age of the Black Lives Matter mobs, and the ethnic make-up of the school playgrounds. The demographic reality is grim, and cannot be altered.

But to admit this needn't bring despair. Just as Northern Ireland shows what's coming, so the Ulster unionists show how even a minority can organise to preserve its identity, resist being marginalised and ensure that future generations grow up learning and celebrating the identity of their forebears.

A generation ago, the other side had an equally strong sense of identity.

Religious breakdown
by age cohorts

But many of those who would once have rioted for, or joined, the IRA are now an identity-free middle class. They have mortgages and civil service jobs, and they'll have the same one child as their middle class counterparts in Surrey.

The PUL community are now the ones feeling the pain of discrimination and being ruled by a hostile elite. It's the loyalists who put tens of thousands of well-disciplined young men on the streets, their marching bands watched and applauded by hundreds of thousands of their kinsfolk.

They have their own 'tribal' societies and meeting places, and the mutual support network of packed out churches. Whatever the ballot papers say, no-one is going to push this people around. Because they stand together.

They would do much better still if they would make a conscious effort to have more kids. But as long as they don't let the Covid lockdown break the tradition of youngsters joining bands and dominating their streets, the unionists of Northern Ireland will be secure for generations to come.

Contrast their community cohesion with the atomised mainland Brits. Facing the same demographic catastrophe, they have no popular culture beyond football, booze and junk TV. One million girls gang-raped, but 99% of them grumbled and turned away. They have no organisations or even music of their own, displays to English pride especially are all but outlawed.

Even the statues are attacked and replaced with new images, to represent the dispossession of the British from their own land. Anyone who thinks this can be turned around by signing petitions or voting needs their heads examined.

What is needed? Look to the loyalists. Nothing else will do!

First you're a majority, then you're a minority, then you get persecuted, then you die off. That's how everyone warning about mass immigration and the Great Replacement sees it. There's some truth in it, but the experience of Ulster loyalism tells us it's not quite as simple as that. And it certainly shows us that there's plenty that can be done about it – especially in mainland Britain.

First, we all need to take a realistic look at the situation of the Ulster unionists. Next year is the 100th anniversary of the creation of Northern Ireland as a mini-state in which the Protestant Unionists – a minority on the island as a whole – would be the majority and so hold on to the British status for which they had fought so valiantly on the Somme.

The centenary celebrations will be massive, but they will also be uneasy – because 2021 will also be the year in which the loyalists become the minority.

The last census in 2011

put the Protestant population at 48% and Catholics at 45%, but the demographic shift has speeded up since then. Five years later, 44% of working age were Catholic and 40% Protestant. Only among the over 60s is there a majority of Protestants, 57%, compared to 35% Catholics. The Protestants' numerical advantage slumped from 9% to 3% in just ten years.

The British Freedom Party is not sectarian, but we are staunchly pro-Union. We know that the old religious affiliations don't carry anything like the weight they used to, especially on the Catholic side.

But in Northern Ireland the labels mark tribal divisions. It's not really about religion, it's about identity and two different peoples and cultures.

So what happens as the old majority becomes a minority really matters in Northern Ireland. It has a huge impact in real life. And it also matters to mainland patriots – where the old white majority is also steadily shrinking.

The British will be the minority in our own homeland by 2060. We already are in London and Birmingham. It's not just immigration; it's mainly because the immigrant communities have more children than ours, and because our much older population is dying more quickly than theirs.

What is happening in Northern Ireland is happening in England, Scotland and Wales too. Children grow up and have families of their own, old people will die – there is nothing that anyone can do to stop it.

The leaders of the Protestant Unionist Loyalist (PUL) community – the politicians, the Loyal Orders, etc – still don't really 'get it'. They seem to think that, just as long as they shout 'No Surrender' loudly enough, nothing will change.

But the villages and streets which used to be painted red-white-and-blue keep turning green-white-and-orange. Enoch Powell's South Down seat is now held by Sinn Féin.

to defend statues which are part of our identity. But, here too, if you want to see the future, look at the average age of the patriots, the average age of the Black Lives Matter mobs, and the ethnic make-up of the school playgrounds. The demographic reality is grim, and cannot be altered.

But to admit this needn't bring despair. Just as Northern Ireland shows what's coming, so the Ulster unionists show how even a minority can organise to preserve its identity, resist being marginalised and ensure that future generations grow up learning and celebrating the identity of their forebears.

A generation ago, the other side had an equally strong sense of identity.

child as their middle class counterparts in Surrey.

The PUL community are now the ones feeling the pain of discrimination and being ruled by a hostile elite. It's the loyalists who put tens of thousands of well-disciplined young men on the streets, their marching bands watched and applauded by hundreds of thousands of their kinsfolk.

They have their own 'tribal' societies and meeting places, and the mutual support network of packed out churches. Whatever the ballot papers say, no-one is going to push this people around. Because they stand together.

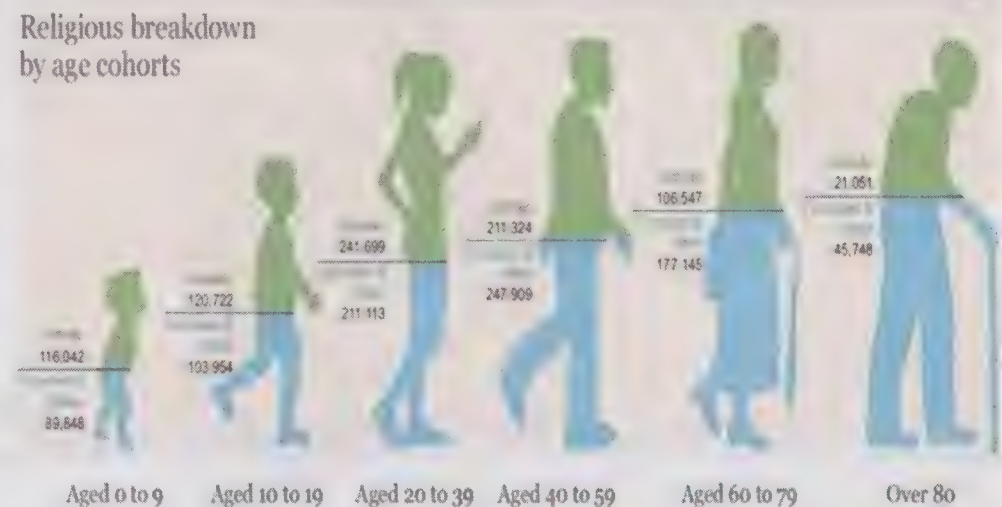

They would do much better still if they would make a conscious effort to have more kids. But as long

Contrast their community cohesion with the atomised mainland Brits. Facing the same demographic catastrophe, they have no popular culture beyond football, booze and junk TV. One million girls gang-raped, but 99% of them grumbled and turned away. They have no organisations or even music of their own, displays to English pride especially are all but outlawed.

Even the statues are attacked and replaced with new images, to represent the dispossession of the British from their own land. Anyone who thinks this can be turned around by signing petitions or voting needs their heads examined.

What is needed? Look to the loyalists. Nothing else will do!

Religious breakdown by age cohorts

A British Icon: Who is Lady Britannia?

Britannia is best known as a national personification of the United Kingdom.

The name is a Latinisation

43 AD, Britannia meant Roman Britain, a province covering the island south of Caledonia (roughly Scotland). When

Britannia long survived the end of Roman rule in Britain in the 5th century and yielded the name for the island in most European and

"Rule Britannia".

A British cultural icon, she was featured on all modern British coinage series until the redesign

There's some truth in it, but the experience of Ulster loyalism tells us it's not quite as simple as that. And it certainly shows us that there's plenty that can be done about it – especially in mainland Britain.

First, we all need to take a realistic look at the situation of the Ulster unionists. Next year is the 100th anniversary of the creation of Northern Ireland as a mini-state in which the Protestant Unionists – a minority on the island as a whole – would be the majority and so hold on to the British status for which they had fought so valiantly on the Somme.

The centenary celebrations will be massive, but they will also be uneasy – because 2021 will also be the year in which the loyalists become the minority.

The last census in 2011

and 40% Protestant. Only among the over 60s is there a majority of Protestants, 57%, compared to 35% Catholics. The Protestants' numerical advantage slumped from 9% to 3% in just ten years.

The British Freedom Party is not sectarian, but we are staunchly pro-Union. We know that the old religious affiliations don't carry anything like the weight they used to, especially on the Catholic side.

But in Northern Ireland the labels mark tribal divisions. It's not really about religion, it's about identity and two different peoples and cultures.

So what happens as the old majority becomes a minority really matters in Northern Ireland. It has a huge impact in real life. And it also matters to mainland patriots – where the old white majority is also mainly because the immigrant communities have more children than ours, and because our much older population is dying more quickly than theirs.

What is happening in Northern Ireland is happening in England, Scotland and Wales too. Children grow up and have families of their own, old people will die – there is nothing that anyone can do to stop it.

The leaders of the Protestant Unionist Loyalist (PUL) community – the politicians, the Loyal Orders, etc – still don't really 'get it'. They seem to think that, just as long as they shout 'No Surrender' loudly enough, nothing will change.

But the villages and streets which used to be painted red-white-and-blue keep turning green-white-and-orange. Enoch Powell's South Down seat is now held by Sinn Féin.

to preserve its identity, resist being marginalised and ensure that future generations grow up learning and celebrating the identity of their forebears.

A generation ago, the other side had an equally strong sense of identity.

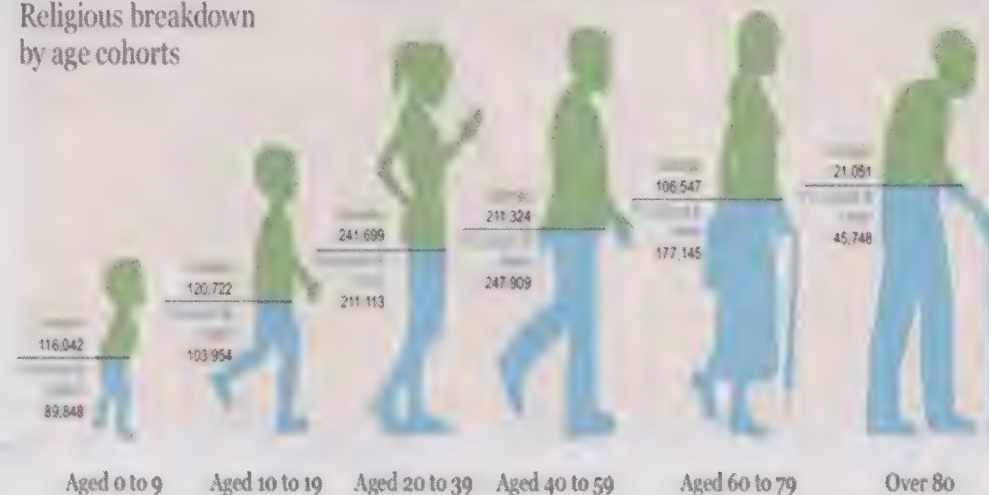

out churches. Whatever the ballot papers say, no-one is going to push this people around. Because they stand together.

They would do much better still if they would make a conscious effort to have more kids. But as long dispossession of the British from their own land. Anyone who thinks this can be turned around by signing petitions or voting needs their heads examined.

What is needed? Look to the loyalists. Nothing else will do!

Religious breakdown by age cohorts

A British Icon: Who is Lady Britannia?

Britannia is best known as a national personification of the United Kingdom.

The name is a Latinisation of the native Brittonic word for the island, Pretani, which also produced the Greek form Prettanike or Brettaniai, which originally, in the fourth to the first centuries BC, designated a collection of islands with individual names, including Albion or Britain.

By the 1st century BC, Britannia came to be used for Great Britain specifically.

After the Roman conquest in 43 AD, Britannia meant Roman Britain, a province covering the island south of Caledonia (roughly Scotland). When Roman Britain was divided into four provinces in 197 AD, two were called Britannia Superior and Britannia Inferior. Britannia is the name given to the female personification of the island, and it is a term still used to refer to the whole island.

In the 2nd century, Roman Britannia came to be personified as a goddess, armed with a trident and shield and wearing a Corinthian helmet. The name

Britannia long survived the end of Roman rule in Britain in the 5th century and yielded the name for the island in most European and various other languages.

After centuries of declining use, the Latin form was revived during the English Renaissance as a rhetorical evocation of a British national identity. Especially following the Acts of Union in 1707, which joined the Kingdoms of England and Scotland, the personification of the martial Britannia was used as an emblem of British maritime power and unity, most notably in

"Rule Britannia".

A British cultural icon, she was featured on all modern British coinage series until the redesign in 2008, and still appears annually on the gold and silver "Britannia" bullion coin series.

She has also historically featured on banknotes and postage stamps.

In 2015 a new definitive £2 coin was issued, with a new image of Britannia. She is also depicted in the Brit Awards statuette, the British Phonographic Industry's annual music awards.

Join the British Freedom Party

Membership pack includes:

A3 Size Magna Carta

5x3 Union Flag

Lapel Badge

Membership Card and Keyfob

Join the British Freedom Party

Membership pack includes:

A3 Size Magna Carta

5x3 Union Flag

Lapel Badge

Membership Card and Keyfob

JOIN TODAY BY COMPLETING THE MEMBERSHIP FORM !

BRITISH FREEDOM PARTY

Here is my gift to support the work of the British Freedom Party

JOIN TODAY BY COMPLETING
THE MEMBERSHIP FORM !
RETURN TO:

ADMIN OFFICE
PO BOX 37, DONAGHADEE
CO.DOWN, BT21 0YY
UNITED KINGDOM

OR

JOIN VIA OUR WEBSITE TODAY:
WWW.BRITISHFREEDOMPARTY.COM

Here is my gift to support the work of the British Freedom Party

Please complete this form in CAPITAL LETTERS

Title: Mr. ☐ Mrs. ☐ Miss. ☐ Ms. ☐ Other:

First Name: Surname:

House No: Street:

Town: Postcode:

Telephone: Date of Birth / /

Email:

Please tick your Donation Amount

<input type="radio"/> £2,500	<input type="radio"/> £1,000	<input type="radio"/> £500
<input type="radio"/> £250	<input type="radio"/> £100	<input type="radio"/> £50
<input type="radio"/> £10	<input type="radio"/> £25	<input type="radio"/> Other

Here is my gift of £
to help the British Freedom Party

Please debit my card below: ☐ I have enclosed a cheque: ☐

Cheques payable to "British Freedom Party"

Visa ☐ Mastercard ☐ Maestro ☐ AMEX ☐ Issue Number (If Maestro)

Card Number:

Start Date: Expiry Date: Security Code:

Signature

Please return this completed form to:
BFP ADMIN, PO Box 37, Donaghadee, Northern Ireland BT21 0YY

0203 026 1215
www.britishfreedomparty.com

+

CMYK

Queen Poster FREE Inside
See Pages 8 & 9

HM Queen poster FREE Inside
See Pages 8 & 9

JOIN THE UK'S FASTEST CROWNING PARTY

HM Queen poster FREE in
See Pages 8 & 9

JOIN THE UK'S FASTEST GROWING PARTY

BRITISH
FREEDOM PARTY

SEE OVERLEAF FOR DETAILS